"Is it books you have to sell?" asked the young wife, now rather irritated at the persistence of the stranger.

CITY COUNCIL GIVES SACO-Lowell SHOPS RIGHT TO ERECT OVERHEAD BRIDGE

By a roll call vote of 10 to 4 the city council last night passed the order giving to the Saco-Lowell Shops the right to erect an enclosed bridge over Durbin street, connecting the present plant with the new structure now being built.

This action was the highlight of a long meeting which did not reach adjournment until after 11:30 o'clock.

Led by Counsellor Frederick A. Sadler there was sustained opposition to the bridge order principally from the angle of labor troubles now existing at the shops, which in the mind of Mr. Sadler are of sufficient import to of-EDDYVILLE, Ky., Oct. 3.—In a desperate attempt to break out of the Eddyville penitentiary today four men, led by Monte Walters, alleged Louisville murderer, who had procured arms in some way, opened fire on the guards, killing one and wounding four. The convicts tried to get out the main way, but were deflected and took refuge in the dining-room. They were cornered there and began a battle with 40 guards and townspeople, who surrounded the prison. The guards fired constantly on the convicts and the latter returned the fire at every opportunity.

A branch office of the state registry of motor vehicles will be opened in this city during the month of November, when the 1924 plates will be ready for distribution, so the chamber of commerce was advised today by Registrar Frank A. Goodwin.

This announcement comes as a welcome surprise to Lowell motorists as few knew that such a move was contemplated. In the past motorists had to send to Boston for their plates and there was often extra expense and delay as governor.

The state capital was again under guard of state troops today. Frank Carter, chairman of the state corporation commission, declared it was his understanding that the guards were under orders to prevent certification to the state election board of returns.

ning board for consideration and recommendation, but when this move was blocked, it eventually went to a vote on the question of passage. Councilors voting in favor were Messrs. Cameron, Chadwick, Daly, Fitzgerald, Gallagher, McFadden, McFadden, Lambert, Genest, and Stearns. Those in opposition were Messrs. Sadlier, Moriarty, Hennessy and Cosgrove.

Other incidents of the session included a public hearing on the question of a waiting room for street railway company patrons at or near the square and favorable action on a motion of Councilor Genest that the president name a citizens' committee of four to confer with the special council committee on the matter and a lengthy verbal report on the activities and aspirations of the planning board based upon what already has been accomplished since its inception. This report was given by Patrick O'Hearn, planning board chairman.

There were also members of the council present when Pres. Gallagher voted to order in $10,000. All others except Councilor Chretien came in later.

Hearing on Waiting Room

The hearing on the question of the Centerville Improvement association for a waiting room for street railway patrons was opened by the reading of the petition. Thomas F. Garvey, president of the association, said that while the hearing was asked for by Centralville residents, the interest is city-wide. He presented John J. Mahoney, vice-president of the organization, as master of ceremonies.

Mr. Mahoney spoke particularly of the health dangers attending the necessity of waiting for cars in and near the square during winter months.

The next speaker was Parker F. Murphy, president of the Trades and Labor council. He asked for immediate action that some shelter may be afforded before winter comes.

Smith J. Adams, former councilor, was the next speaker. He said conditions in and near the square are deplorable. "Ifers use Paige street as a sort of hang-out," he declared, "and I know of occasions when Centralville women have had their pockets picked by these loafers."

Mr. Adams said there is a state law in Massachusetts which compels street railway companies to provide waiting rooms.

Questioned by Councilor Daly as to the penalty provided by this law, Mr. Adams said the specified penalty was ten dollars.

Speaking on the statement of Mr. Adams, that he initiated action for a waiting room when in the council last year, Councilor Daly asked what reasons were advanced by the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co. for not providing a shelter.

"We're afraid of expense and no available location," the reply was that of the Eastern councilor.

Thomas J. Reardon, labor organizer, also asked for action by the council.

On motion of Councilor Genest, it was voted to authorize the president to name a committee of four citizens to act in conjunction with a special committee of the council to take action on the waiting room proposition.

As there were no remonstrants to the petition the hearing was declared closed.

The next matter brought before the council was an informal report by the city planning board of the board's activities up to date. Patrick O'Hearn, chairman of the board, was the spokesman.

He covered a great deal of ground and reviewed at length the work of the board since its formation. Several councilors interrupted occasionally to ask questions concerning certain proposals being considered.

Councilor Daly asked Mr. O'Hearn if he cared to comment upon the proposed bridge over Dutton street being erected by the Saco-Lowell shops, but he did not care to pass judgment upon it.

Councilor Sadlier asked Mr. O'Hearn for a personal opinion relative to the bridge. He replied he could see no reason why it should not be allowed if at sufficient height above the street level. The councilor endeavored to find out if this matter was not a proposal one for the planning board to consider but the chairman did not definitely commit himself.

Mr. Weed Also a Speaker

Clarence M. Weed, a member of the planning board, said he felt the board would be very glad to pass upon any questions pronounced by the council.

Councilor Sadlier asked if he thought the Saco-Lowell bridge permit a proper one for consideration by the planning board.

"I most certainly do," was Mr. Weed's reply.

Pres. Gallagher read the order giving the Saco-Lowell shops permission to erect the bridge.

Councilor Sadlier moved the order

Every Picture Tells a Story

Feel Lame, Achy -- All Worn Out?

DOES early autumn find you dull, tired, achy all over—crippled with a bad back? Are you tortured with sharp, stabbing pains at every sudden move? Do you feel lame and stiff; worn out, nervous and dispirited? Then something is wrong and you should lose no time correcting it! More than likely it's your kidneys. The kidneys, you know, are constantly filtering poisons from the blood. But weak kidneys allow these poisons to accumulate and upset blood and nerves. The effect is soon felt. You suffer daily backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness and annoying bladder irregularities. You feel nervous and depressed—tired, stiff and achy. Don't risk some serious kidney sickness. Help your weakened kidneys before it is too late! Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

Read How these Lowell Folks Found Relief:

GEORGE V. MORRISON, Machinist, 118 Lincoln Street, Says: "I worked in the paint shop for a while and the turpentine fumes knocked my kidneys out. I suffered from my waist and to stop felt as though someone was pulling my back to pieces. I had to cease the kidney secretions frequently. Everything went around in circles at times and I came near falling over. A friend recommended Doan's Kidney Pills and half a dozen boxes cured me completely. My cure has been a lasting one."

MRS. JOHN FLAELLY, 2 Dudley Court, Says: "The first symptom of kidney trouble in my case was lame back. When I tried to wash, awful pains shot through the sinews of my back and after the wash I could hardly straighten. I suffered severely from pains in the back of my head and I always felt tired and played out. I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and a couple of boxes from Liggett Co.'s drug store removed the pain from my back. I feel years younger."

DAN COUGHLIN, Stationary Fireman, 47 Barrely Street, Says: "A cold settled on my kidneys and caused lame back when stooped to shovel, and a knife-like pain brought me in the small of my back and had me badly crippled. My kidneys acted too often and had to get up as many as six times during the night. I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and got a supply at Burkinshaw's Drug store. After using several boxes of Doan's I was cured of the 1 foot years younger."

bo referred to the planning board and the Inspector of buildings. The motion was lost, 8 to 6.

Councilor Sadlier spoke on labor troubles now existing at the shop and said he felt it has a great bearing on the bridge question inasmuch as about 150 citizens of the city are out of employment due to this labor trouble. He expressed himself as still opposed to the petition and asked for a year and may vote when the question of passage was put.

Councilor Daly said he feels the bridge matter has no material connection with the closing of Worthen street, although he still maintains this action was not necessary and stated he felt the order should be passed at the present meeting. He said he had been informed by Agent Feaster that any further delay in the bridge matter will seriously handicap the building program.

Councilor Sadlier said he did not feel a month's delay will work any hardship on the company.

Councilor Daly asked for permission to allow Mr. Feaster to address the council, which was granted.

He stated only 52 men, former employees, are not now working at the plant. Eight of the new men being employed are from out of town. He said a great deal hinges on the time of bridge completion inasmuch as it will carry pipes for heating from the present plant to the new one and it will not be advisable to lay floors in the new building until after heat has been turned on.

"But that is not the real serious question," he continued. "The employment of about 500 men hangs on the completion of our new plant in entirety, including the bridge. We are sustaining a monetary loss of $50 per day, but we will stand that, in fact we have got to stand it, for we agreed to when we contracted for the plant."

Considerable discussion followed relative to the strike of masons now in progress and several councilors questioned Mr. Feaster regarding it.

Order Finally Passed

The matter finally reached the voting stage and the clerk was instructed to call the roll. The order passed 10 to 4, with Councilor Chretien absent.

Councilor Lambert asked for action on the petition of David Zicklin for a sewer track in Tanner street. Councilor Cosgrove, chairman of a special investigating committee, asked for an extension of a week. This was granted and Councilor Lambert moved the council committee on claims: William Shon, by his attorney, Thomas L. Reynolds; Lillian M. Smith for her husband Frank A. Smith; Helen Knapp.

Hearings were set for Tuesday evening, November 6, on the following petitions for garage and gasoline stations: Fred T. Faulcon, 58 Main; Frank P. McCullin, 437 East Merrimack; Louis Repaud, 22 Wilson; Dickinson A. Sakellarion, 185 Mt. Vernon.

The mayor was authorized to sign an indenture between the city and the proprietors of the Locks and Canals whereby the Locks and Canals grants the city the rights and permission to construct a surface drain from Payne and Saunders streets into the Pawtucket canal.

Hearings were held on the following petitions of the Lowell Electric Light Corp. for two poles in New York street, for one pole in South Walker street, for one pole in Highland avenue, for one pole in Highland avenue, for one pole in Bedford avenue, and for four poles in Gates street. On petitions of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co., the following hearings were held: for one pole in Butler avenue, for three poles in Carter street and for three poles in Broadway.

following week witness called at the Slaven house, but could not get in, although she heard some one walking around in the kitchen. Later witness and her brother, John, went to the Slaven house but could not get in. The following week witness again went to the Slaven house and after pounding on the door for five minutes, Mrs. Slaven opened the door and witness passed into the house, went to her uncle's room, and told him of the difficulty she had in getting in. Mrs. Slaven said she had been upstairs and no comment was made by Mr. Norton.

This line of inquiry was objected to by Atty. Kerwin, counsel for the will, on the ground that it took place several months after the will was signed and was, therefore, immaterial. The court ruled it admissible, however.

Miss Mulry told of subsequent visits to her uncle at the Slaven home, about once each week. On one visit Mr. Norton wanted to smoke and witness filled his pipe. Mrs. Slaven objected to his smoking in bed, but Miss Mulry held the pipe for him while he enjoyed his smoke, she said.

Under cross-examination Miss Mulry admitted that she had not visited Mr. Norton's house for 19 years previous to Mrs. Norton's death. She denied there was any feeling between them, saying that the only reason she never visited the Nortons was because she was not in the habit of visiting.

"But you visited other houses, didn't you?" inquired Atty. Kerwin.

"Yes, houses in my neighborhood. But still you never once in 19 years visited your own blood relations?"

"I only went there when there was sickness," witness replied.

After Mrs. Norton's death witness said she visited Mr. Norton at least once each week up to the time of his death.

Miss Mulry admitted she knew Mrs. Donohoe, but when they met on the street witness said she did not speak to her. Not that they had any trouble, but she just didn't care about speaking to Mrs. Donohoe, she said. Witness denied that there was any feeling against the Donohoes because they were friendly with Mr. Norton.

Miss Mulry further said that Mr. Norton many times called at the Mulry home, and frequently said that when he died he was going to leave his money to her. She denied that any of the Mulry family pressed Mr. Norton on the street and refused to speak to him.

"After Mrs. Norton's death, did you ask Mr. Norton to come and live with you, knowing that he was all alone?" inquired Atty. Kerwin.

"I don't remember."

"And did he answer, 'No, you have stayed away from me long enough'?"

"No, he never said that," replied the witness.

Miss Mulry admitted that Mrs. Slavin took care of Mr. Norton after Mrs. Norton's death, and so far as the witness knew, no one else took care of him. In answer to further questions witness said she never remained at Mr. Norton's house all night or took care of him.

Miss Mulry admitted that neither she nor any of her family went to Mrs. Norton's funeral, or attended the funeral mass.

"But Mr. Norton wanted you to go to his wife's funeral, didn't he?" inquired Atty. Kerwin.

"Yes."

"Then why didn't you go?"

"Because Mr. Donohoe didn't invite me," she answered.

In rebuttal Miss Mulry said that although she did not visit the Norton home from the time her aunt died, which was about 19 years before Mrs. Norton's death, she did call there regularly only each week after her uncle, John Norton, suffered a shock. This was in January, 1921, a few months before Mrs. Norton's death.

Atty. Howard, for the contestants, then offered as evidence a transcript of a record of the City Institute for Savings, showing that on April 8, 1921, there was on deposit there $729 in the name of Mary Norton. Atty. Norton said this was offered first to show that Mr. Norton could not draw this money after his wife's death, without furnishing a bond, or by being administrator, and secondly, to show that the Mulrys had nothing to do with preventing the withdrawal of this money.

A further record was introduced to show that on February 8, 1921, an order was signed by Mrs. Norton to the treasurer of City Institute for Savings to pay Mary Donohoe $100.

The court instructed the jury that no inference of undue influence was to be drawn by this, other than to show that Mrs. Donohoe and Michael J. Donohoe knew that there was a bank account in the name of Mary Norton.

Further records were introduced to show that on April 23, 1921, the entire amount was drawn from the bank by Mr. Norton, with Mr. Donohoe, Mr. Kelley and Mrs. Slaven furnishing surety on a bond.

John J. Mulry, a police officer, and one of the contestants, was the next witness called. He said Mr. Norton was his uncle. When Mrs. Norton died, witness said he was ill in bed and was physically unable to call at the Norton home until after the funeral. When he did call, Mr. Norton did not recognize him and his sister said: "This is John, uncle." Then they talked over old times for about an hour, he said, but during that time there was nothing said about a will. On later visits also, witness said, Mr. Norton never mentioned anything about a will.

After Mr. Norton was removed to the Slaven house, Mr. Mulry said he called there with his sister, but they could not get in, even though they pounded and kicked the door. No one came to the door, he said, although he heard someone walking around in the house.

On his visits to Mr. Norton after the latter suffered a shock, Mr. Mulry said that frequently Mr. Norton did not recognize him, but after he told Mr. Norton who he was, they talked along general lines.

Witness corroborated his sister's testimony that he heard his uncle say several times that he would leave his money to Mary Mulry. He denied that there was ever any unkindness toward Mr. Norton.

Under cross-examination, witness said that he felt John Kelley was his uncle's greatest friend and that they were frequently together. He denied that he ever knowingly passed his uncle on the street without speaking to him. He admitted that although Mr. Norton called frequently at the Mulry house, he never once in 19 years went to visit at his uncle's home.

After Mr. Norton suffered a shock witness said he called to see him about once a week, and every time he went there he found Mrs. Slaven in the house. Sometimes Mr. Kelley was there. Mrs. Slaven was apparently helping in the housework, witness stated.

Witness said that the only thing which kept him away from Mrs. Norton's funeral was because he was sick in bed, that he would have attended if he were physically able.

"And would you have gone even if your sister didn't?" inquired Atty. Kerwin.

"I'd have gone, and they would too," replied the witness.

Witness said he asked Mr. Norton after Mrs. Norton's death, to go and live at the Mulry house, and Mr. Norton said he would think it over. But Mr. Norton never said he would go, witness declared.

Under further questioning, Mr. Mulry admitted that he sent Mr. Smith, janitor at the police station, to see Mr. Coderre, one of the witnesses to the will, with request that Mr. Coderre call at the police station to see him. Mr. Coderre did call, and said, in answer to a question, that he thought Mr. Norton was not mentally capable of making a will.

Asked if he had anything in mind when he sent a message to Mr. Coderre to come to the police station, he said he had not. He did not think such a request would have any effect.

"Do you transact all your private business at the police station?" inquired Atty. Kerwin.

"I don't transact any business there," replied the witness.

"Don't you consider the meeting with Mr. Coderre at the police station was part of your business?"

"No, it was not," answered Mr. Mulry.

At this point Atty. Howard rested for the contestants.

Atty. James Reilly, who drew the will, was then recalled to the stand in rebuttal of testimony offered by Mr. Coderre, and denied that he (the witness) was the only one who did any talking. He said that Mr. Coderre and Mr. Norton took part in the conversation.

Dr. Herbert M. Larrabee of Tewksbury, was next called to the stand and said that since 1901 he has practiced in Lowell, and specialized in mental and nervous diseases. It was admitted by counsel that witness qualified as an expert.

On May 18, 1921, witness said, he visited John Norton and examined him as to whether he was capable of conducting business affairs. He described his physical condition. At this point the noon recess was taken.

At yesterday afternoon's session Dr. B. R. Benner, who qualified as an alienist in mental disorders, testified to making an examination of John Norton at the latter's home in June of 1921, about two months after the will was made. As a result of his observations and examinations at the time, Dr. Benner testified that in his opinion Mr. Norton was not mentally able to dispose of his property by will. Dr. Benner said that there were evidences of a shock that there was facial irregularity and that Mr. Norton had difficulty in keeping the saliva in his mouth, and that he talked incoherently. It was with difficulty, at times, Dr. Benner stated, that he was able to understand Mr. Norton, but under cross examination he said that eventually he did understand every answer given by Mr. Norton.

The witness said that his examination was made at the request of Judge

Fisher, whom he understood at the time was acting for the Mulry family, who are contestants of the will.

Under cross-examination, the witness testified that he asked Mr. Norton a series of questions. Among the questions asked Mr. Norton were whether he could name the presidents who had been assassinated, and Mr. Norton named Lincoln and Garfield, but didn't remember McKinley. Asked if this led him to the conclusion that Mr. Norton was feeble-minded, the witness stated:

"That his conclusion was not based solely on one item."

Among the other questions asked of Mr. Norton were, Who was the commander of the French forces in the Great war? Is Roosevelt living or dead? What was the date of your marriage? When did your wife die?

To most of the questions asked, Mr. Norton made a correct reply, witness stated.

Dr. Benner said that he did not ask Mr. Norton if he could read or write, and admitted that this was important and that he should have asked that question.

Mrs. Bridget Tyrell, who was on the stand yesterday morning, was recalled at the afternoon session. She said that some time in January of 1921 Mr. Norton said that his property would all be left to Mary Mulry. Under cross-examination she admitted that Mary Mulry has asked her to testify.

GRAND JURY PROBES DEATH

Investigation of Alleged Poisoning of Mrs. Charles Webb Continues

Mrs. Johnstone, Wife of Former New York Judge, to Testify Today

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Oct. 3.—The Westchester county grand jury today will continue its investigation into the alleged poisoning of Mrs. Charles Webb, wealthy member of New York and Philadelphia society, who died a week ago today at the Westchester-Biltmore Country club at Rye, N. Y. Yesterday Dr. William J. Meyer, who attended Mrs. Webb during her last illness and was the first to intimate that she had been the victim of slow poisoning, appeared before the jury to explain his charges and suspicions.

One of today's main witnesses is expected to be Mrs. Margaret P. Johnstone, wife of a former New York judge, and one of Mrs. Webb's best friends. Mrs. Johnstone has been frank in her statements of the belief that the wealthy Mrs. Webb was poisoned and her testimony is expected to uphold the statement of Dr. Meyer.

A move was started among former friends of Mrs. Webb last night to take the case to Gov. Smith and ask him to designate the attorney general to continue the investigation.

This move was taken soon after Coronet Fitzgerald and District Attorney Rowland had made statements that if more evidences of poisoning were not forthcoming immediately, the case would be dropped. The chemical analysis of Mrs. Webb's kidneys has not as yet been reported officially to the county officials.

The fight over Mrs. Webb's will, or wills, which were said to dispose of an estate of between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 was expected to take more definite form today.

Former Surrogate Conlan has been retained by relatives to contest the short will which was filed for probate.

OAKLAND TRAVELER IS EXPECTED

Tomorrow will be the big day. The Oakland "True Blue Traveler," one of the fleet of new Oaklands despatched from the factory at Pontiac on Sept. 8, at the same time that the first announcement was made in the Saturday Evening Post, is gradually nearing Lowell and the members of the Lowell Oakland force, from Manager Arthur F. Pease all down the line are anxiously awaiting the word that shall tell them that the new Oakland creation is within the city limits.

From cities which the various cars have visited come stories of wonderful receptions. More as a conquering hero than as the 20th century representative of transportation has it been hailed.

Just what form of demonstration the car will give will depend upon circumstances, but it is practically settled that the co-operation of the traffic authorities will be secured so that the highlight of the new four-wheel brakes will be made at important points in the downtown section. It is also assured that a hill climbing demonstration will be staged that is expected to put an altogether different phase on hill climbing than any hitherto known.

Thursday should certainly prove to be a big day locally for the new Oakland.

FOUR-CYLINDER HAS FOUR-WHEEL BRAKES

Amidst all the talk about four-wheel brakes, there has been only one four-cylinder automobile put out with brakes on all four wheels. When the Buick Co. announced that the new four-cylinder for this year would be equipped with four-wheel brakes, it caused much wonder on the part of many, both in the automobile trade and out. Four-wheel brakes for six-cylinder cars had become an accepted fact, but were not expected on four-cylinder cars.

Buick provides maximum safety when it equipped its 1924 four cylinder car with four-wheel brakes.

EXCEPTIONAL RIDING COMFORT

The new Dodge Brothers Touring Car is exceptionally comfortable to ride in; it is good looking; and it incorporates many important refinements of detail.

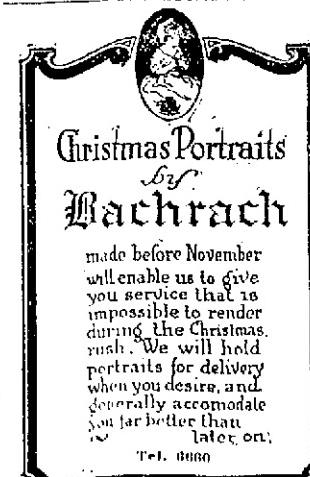

The body is longer and lower, eliminating side sway, affording more leg room, and enhancing the beauty of the lines.

Deeper seats, long underslung rear springs and longer front springs, give ample assurance that cross country touring can be enjoyed without weariness or fatigue.

Yet with these improvements, and many others, it is still fundamentally the same car—built on the same chassis and powered by the same sturdy engine.

Last Longer—Less Adjustment

Buick Four-Wheel Brakes

Buick four-wheel brakes not only double the braking efficiency of the new 1924 Buicks by doubling the braking surface, but for the same reason lessen the wear on each brake mechanism in proportion. Buick four-wheel brakes last longer. They require less adjustment and the linings do not wear down as quickly.

Simple in construction and positive in action, Buick four-wheel brakes give added safety under all circumstances. They are of the Buick external contracting type and each brake has a three-quarter wrap or grip instead of the usual half-way grip.

Buick four-wheel brakes are operated with a slight pressure on the service brake pedal. They act quickly, smoothly and easily.

All 1924 Buicks (both fours and sixes) have these new four-wheel brakes. In addition, the 1924 Buicks embody further advancements in power, in construction and in beauty that make Buick more than ever "the Standard of Comparison".

Features for Thursday, Friday and Saturday will include two of the best photoplay releases of the current season, "The Exciters," starring Bob Daniels and Antonio Moreno, and "Other Women's Clothes," a Hugo Ballin production with an all-star cast. There will be the usual short features, and an excellent musical program by Organist Frank A. Bentick.

Miss Daniels, in the role of Anna Rand, a regular star girl with the Sonnets of Bushwhack, winter comedy at Strand. She is compelled by the will of her aunt to marry before she becomes twenty-one, or suffer the loss of an immense fortune. An apathetic young man, Roger Paxton, is according to the family to be the lucky bridegroom. But Bebe finds him deeply in love with Ethie Marshall, who it turns develops as a crook and member of a bandit band. Following an aeroplane crash, he cares for her, and the pair are married. Acting under orders of his confederates, Pierre demands a large sum for an annulment of the marriage. But it develops later that Pierre is wealthy and an officer of the intelligence service of the U.S.

blinded with crooks to frustrate their plans. He is no exciter, too! A united climax brings the picture to a success and an appeal to universal taste.

You will find "Nora O'Brien" the most lovable and amusing little coquette that you've ever laid eyes upon. If you want a real treat, don't miss this week's offering of the Al Lutterling Players, or you'll regret it when you hear what your friends think of "Alias Nora O'Brien."

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

The Texas Four, one of the best singing and comedy quartets ever to visit this city, is featuring the bill at the B. F. Keith theatre this week.

The players of the supporting cast portray their respective roles excellently. There are Burr McIntosh, Dan Allen, Cyril Ring and others.

Wendy, the charming girl in "Other Women's Clothes," a Hugo Ballin production with an all-star cast.

A. L. LUTTERLING PLAYERS

In "Alias Nora O'Brien," the second feature, has that elusive something known as "atmosphere." It abounds in pretty women in lovely clothes. It has distinct novelty of plot and a unique love story pictured amid settings which Hugo Ballin, with his artist's instinct for the beautiful, alone can achieve.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

In "Alias Nora O'Brien," the authors have succeeded in weaving a story in which comedy and drama are cleverly intertwined, in which tears, laughs and gasps are shared, the one into the other. "Alias Nora O'Brien" holds its own moment in it, starting right off with a bang, and compels the interest, and from then on it never loses its grip upon your interest and your emotions. In fact, the play gets more and more fascinating as it goes along, and it builds up to a finale of comedy and drama which is little less than a masterpiece.

The prime motive of the theatre is to entertain, and we can guarantee that every patron of the theatre will vote that "Alias Nora O'Brien" is the most satisfactory offering of the season. It has been well understood. The scene is a Mexican "cantina" reputed to be the rendezvous of evil characters who smuggle narcotics into this country. Some ghastly pranks whip the story into a succession of thrills that work up to a climactic climax in the close. Mystery, thrills and contributions in plenty by "A Man of Action." Trap doors, trick exits, sliding panels, collapsible stairs and this-way-outs warranted to make a nervous bootlegger's heart stop by mechanical genius for the filming of this feature, and you will enjoy them all. It's a Thomas H. Ince production.

R. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

The Texas Four, one of the best singing and comedy quartets ever to visit this city, is featuring the bill at the B. F. Keith theatre this week.

The men are really good singers. Tom Holter & Co. in a farce strike a new note, with Nixon & Saus bring forth a blanking singing and dancing act which is 100 per cent. Their songs are many better on the stage. Pepito, the Spanish clown; O'Brien & Josephine, "The Song Salesman," and the Folks Sisters complete the vaudeville portion. The picture feature is "The Money Everything" and Norman Kerry is broken, his faith in himself broken, takes to drink and sinks

brooding by himself in a dive of dis-

repute in the underworld, thus plant-

RALTO THEATRE

Have your friends told you about "The Face On The Bar Room Floor"? You have told your friends, if you haven't been to the Rialto, take your friends with you tonight. Here is a picture that gives you a thrill, plenty of action and a charming love story.

A melodramatic vehicle of unusual

INSURANCE AGAINST STRIKES AND RIOTS

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Large policies are being placed in the London insurance market against risks of strike, riot and civil commotion in Germany on properties belonging to American and British interests, much of which is in Hamburg. The Daily Telegraph quotes one underwriter as saying that the amount of such insurance totals "literally a million pounds."

WILL HOLD RIFLE SHOOT
The Mechanics' Phalanx association of Co. C will hold a special rifle range at the Dracut Range on Sunday, Oct. 7, in connection with its regular meeting. Plans are under way to make this meeting the biggest in the history of the organization. Plenty of entertainment will be provided by the members and a bountiful turkey supper will be served at 6 o'clock in the evening.

Lamar and Two Detectives in Jail

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 3.—A telegram from Laredo, Tex., last night said the progress of David Lamar, "Wolf of Wall Street," to the Texas border, was interrupted Tuesday at Torreon, when Lamar and two Mexican detectives accompanying him, were thrown in jail. The charges on which the trio is being held were not specified. L. T. Needham of the department of justice has gone to Torreon, where he expects to get Lamar and return with him Friday.

Barrett declared that the guards had the heaviest vote for a referendum merely been transformed to the capital from the local armory as a precautionary measure and that there was no significance in their presence. He said no trouble was expected. The troops are quartered in our room, and the building is not patrolled.

Sweeping Victory

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 3.—(By the Associated Press) Opponents of Gov. J. C. Walton scored a sweeping victory yesterday in the most spectacular election ever held in Oklahoma.

A constitutional amendment empowering the state legislature to meet on its own call to consider impeachment charges against the governor was passed by a decisive majority.

Despite the executive's proclamation postponing the election and his threat to block it by armed force, opposition was negligible, and the balloting proceeded peacefully, except for minor instances, throughout the state.

Heavy Vote on Record
Indications early today were that board headquarters when election officials there refused to open the polls. Military Forces Absent

In all other counties the election proceeded smoothly under the watchful eyes of hundreds of special deputies commissioned to protect the voters.

There was no instance of interference by members of the governor's state police force. Two, however, were arrested at Tulsa, charged with carrying concealed weapons.

The military forces did not appear.

Replying to the statement of Representative W. D. McFee that his "democratic administration" no longer can be representative of a small part of the people because such an overwhelming majority repudiated it in the election, Gov. Walton declared last night:

"I am still governor of the state. The fight on the invisible empire has just started in Oklahoma."

The executive has charged that members of the legislature who drafted impeachment charges against him and attempted to convene, only to be dispersed by national guardsmen under orders from the governor, are Ku Klux Klansmen, seeking to have his war on the secret organization.

The legislative amendment in the constitution under the law, becomes effective as soon as returns from the election are certified to the secretary of state by the state election board. This usually requires at least a week.

Walton May Go to Courts
While the future intentions of the governor have not been made known, it is considered probable that he will seek through the courts to bar an immediate assembly of the legislature under the provisions of the amendment and thereby test the validity of the election.

If he seeks an injunction restraining the election board from certifying the returns, attorneys pointed out today, it will be necessary for the state supreme court to pass on the legality of the election. This might delay any attempt of the legislature to convene because of certain formalities observed in such proceedings.

To decide the election legal, it was said, the supreme court first must ascertain whether it is a "representative sentiment" of the state as a whole.

ALLEGED BLACK HAND LEADER CAUGHT

N.Y., Oct. 2.—A one-man "international blackhand society," which extracted hundreds of thousands of lire from victims in Italy by mailing them published accounts of the murder of 5-year-old Giuseppe Varotto by New York blacklanders, is believed by the police to have been put out of business today by the arrest of Francisco Gulla, a Brooklyn clerk.

Gulla was taken in custody at the Tramella bank, as he was cashing a draft for 15,000 lire, obtained from Mrs. Alfonso Pisano. The woman, a wealthy widow, mailed Gulla the money from Italy, then took the next boat home to help authorities arrest him. He is charged with having used the mails to defraud.

Gulla has confessed, according to the police, that he conducted a blackhand business under the name of "Francisco Talarico, president." On his person his captors said they found a complete record of victims and copies of letters which frightened them into contributing to the defense fund of the one-man society.

Mrs. Pisano told of having received newspaper clippings describing the death of the Varotto boy, whose body was found in the Hudson a few years ago after he had been kidnapped from parents who disregarded the threats of a New York gang of blackmailers.

"This is what our agents can do—here or in Italy!" were letters signed by "Talarico," that accompanied the newspaper accounts. The last letter Mrs. Pisano received contained a demand for 60,000 lire.

Gulla was held in $5000 bail.

affecting arterial and heart action. This means shortening of life.

If its sedative effects are a solace to men and women, all well and good. But the little solace and pleasure it affords does not stop the user's deterioration in mental and physical health. The pleasure is costly.

It might be a good thing to put the use of tobacco on an exact dosage limit and apply it therapeutically.

RESEARCH CLUB

The first full meeting of the Research Club was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. S. R. Waller in Parker street. Mrs. George Burns presided. Routine business was transacted and current events discussed, after which refreshments were served by the hostess and Mrs. William Lawler, Mrs. Arthur Osterman and Mrs. J. Martel.

TOBACCO

Users of the weed claim that tobacco is a great help in mental work where the effort is sustained and a stimulant needed. On the contrary, six great educational institutions in our country, by carefully grouping tobacco statistics, have proved that such is not the fact.

If a boy or man is in normal health there is nothing of more vital importance to his physical well-being and mental balance than the full supply of oxygen to the lungs. Deep breathing will provide the system with more power and disease resistant qualities than any other separate bodily process.

In a smoker of medium habits, the loss of oxygen power or lung capacity is reduced 10 per cent. There is no doubt that the poisonous effect of nicotine, in the medium or heavy smokers, produces arterio-sclerosis (hardening of the arteries).

Nicotine in tobacco is known to excite and stimulate the adrenal glands to excessive secretion. This excess affects the blood vessels. It constricts them in heavy smokers to a marked degree.

Do You Have Backache
Over Kidneys?
Limbs Swell?

Try to follow Mr. Agans' Advice

Alany, N. Y.—Ever since my early boyhood I have suffered from weak kidneys and as I grew older they became worse. I got so I suffered continually with backaches, my limbs would swell, my joints became stiff with rheumatism and my bladder became weak. I would have to quit my work entirely several weeks at a time. I was 'all in' and nearly down and out with this ailment. Nothing seemed to give me any relief, although I tried everything I could hear of in the medicine line. I was finally advised to try Dr. Pierce's Anuric (kidney and backache) Tablets and thru the persistent use of this medicine I was completely cured of all my kidney ailment and other weakness and have never had any trouble from these ailments since. The Anuric Tablets have won a new man of me and I never fail to recommend them when I hear a complaint from anyone suffering with kidney or bladder trouble. Before I took Anuric I had almost given up hope of ever getting better, but thanks to Dr. Pierce's Anuric, I am in good health and able to work every day." Morton E. Agans, 464 Wash. Ave.

Seize Yacht With $60,000 Whiskey Cargo

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Three police boats captured a $50,000 gasoline yacht with $60,000 worth of whiskey on board in the East river, early today. The police boats forced the craft in shore, after engines had forced her to cut down her speed. Four men were arrested.

New York Wants Democratic Convention

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Organization of a movement to bring the national democratic convention to New York in 1924, was started today when a group of prominent men were called together to discuss the proposal. Former Justice O'Brien is chairman of the group, which is non-partisan and includes Will Hays, William Church Osborne, Frank A. Munsey, Ralph Pulitzer, Lewis E. Pieron, Thomas L. Chadbourne, Michael Friedsam and Frank D. Waterman. Should the convention be brought to New York it will be the city's first national major political convention in nearly half a century.

To Test Torpedo Boat Destroyer Putnam

ROCKLAND, Me., Oct. 3.—The torpedo boat destroyer Putnam went on the Rockland course today for standardizations, resuming a series of experimental trials which were begun last fall.

The government is making an intensive set of tests to determine the effect of different displacements on speed, also what effect fouling of the bottom has on speed. The results of last fall's tests were satisfactory with the exception of the horse power data, according to the officials, and today's standardization was for statistical information in that respect.

Six months hence after marine growth has accumulated on the destroyer's bottom in southern waters, a similar trial will take place, probably at Guantanamo Bay.

Today's trial was under the direction of Rear Admiral G. H. Burrage, the new president of the board of inspection and survey, who returned from command of the torpedo boat flotilla just before the destruction of seven destroyers on the California coast a month ago.

Divorces on Increase in United States

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—One divorce to 7.6 marriages in the United States last year, is the record disclosed today by the census bureau's marriage and divorce survey, the first since 1916, when there was one divorce to almost 8.3 marriages. There were one-fifth more divorces and about one-fifth fewer marriages per 100,000 of population last year, than in 1916.

There were 1,126,418 marriages recorded last year, while in 1916 there were 1,040,654, showing a numerical increase of 85,764. To every 100,000 of population, however, there were only 1,033, marriages in 1922 as compared with 1,055 in 1916, a decrease of 2.0 per cent.

Divorces granted last year totalled 145,551 for the whole country, against 112,038 in 1916, an increase of 26,513. To each 100,000 of population, there was 112 in 1916, an increase of 21.4 per cent.

Columbia Squad in Secret Practice

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—In preparation for the football game with the University of Pennsylvania on Oct. 20, the Columbia "varsity" squad, under the tutelage of Coach Percy Hartman, will engage in regular secret practice. The first drill behind closed gates was held yesterday at Baker Field. Hartman believes that the game with the Red and Blue machine of Lou Young may be the turning point of the Columbia football season. The members of the secret committee work will be in force for the big games with Cornell and Dartmouth later.

Signal drills, a strenuous lasting a half hour and tickling exercise with a swindust dummy, occupied yesterday's strenuous workout. It was announced,

CARDINAL APPEALS FOR RELIEF FUND

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—Cardinal O'Connell has issued a letter to all of the archbishops and bishops of the Catholic church in the United States in behalf of Pope Pius XI, calling for a collection in all churches for the "Holy Father's Charitable Relief Fund."

The Cardinal, who just returned from the hierarchy's meeting, dated the letter from Washington, the first of the present month, and says:

"At our latest meeting in Washington, Sept. 26, His Excellency the Apostolic Delegate read to the assembled prelates a communication which he had just received from His Holiness, Pope Pius XI, in which the Holy Father, in hope of receiving large financial aid, a very touching manner, set forth the urgent need of coming to the assistance of the poor and suffering peoples of the Near East, Central Europe and Japan.

"Naturally the poor and the suffering of all nations turn now more than ever to the Holy See, imploring the Common Father of Christendom to aid them and succor them in their unspeakable distress.

"The heart of the Sovereign Pontiff is torn with anguish as appeal after appeal is made to him, finding himself, nevertheless, without adequate means to supply financial aid to so many and so insistent cries from various parts of the world for his charitable intervention. Formerly he could appeal to the various nations of Europe to help him in his charitable endeavors to aid his suffering and needy children; but now to what nation in Europe can he turn with any sympathy and generosity?

"The Holy Father never appeals for himself; he never speaks of his own needs, though they are many and great.

"The bishops who listened to the reading of the Holy Father's letter were deeply touched and unanimously promised instant aid to the efforts of the Holy Father in procuring help for his suffering children. Unanimously, too, they recommended at once collections all over the country for what they wished to be named 'The Holy Father's Charitable Relief Fund,' and they instructed me to send this communication to all the archbishops and bishops of America, which I have herewith the honor to do.

"It is their hope and wish that this most recent appeal of the Holy Father should be given the fullest publicity all over the country, and that on the earliest Sunday possible after the receipt of this letter collections be taken up in all the churches of the country for this fund and sent forthwith to His Excellency, the Apostolic Delegate, who will transmit the money received to the Holy Father.

"May we not all, by our united action in this response to the Holy Father's appeal, give added proof, if such were necessary, that his burdens are our burdens, that his anxieties are ours, and that whenever he turns to us for assistance, or aid, or comfort his devoted American children will realize his desire as soon as it is expressed and gladly endeavor to accomplish it?"

"The socialists and democrats in the cabinet will inform their parties of the arrangement decided upon.

TO AVERT CRISIS IN GERMANY

United Socialists Said to Be Prepared to Make a Few Concessions

Move Expected to Avert German Ministerial Crisis, Says Berlin Despatch

LONDON, Oct. 3.—There is possibility that a German ministerial crisis will be averted inasmuch as the United Socialists have said they are prepared to make a few concessions, says an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Berlin today.

The nationalistic party has requested the appointment of Minoux, managing director of the Stinnes concern, as minister of finance in place of Herr Helfferding.

The Socialist group in the Saxon diet has decided to invite the communists to join the government on the condition that they recognize the constitution, the despatch adds.

SCHOOL BOARD RULES

A committee of the school board has under consideration some changes in the rules governing the action of the board and defining the duties of superintendent, teachers and other employees of the department. One of the principal changes is, that the superintendent shall not serve as secretary. Formerly the superintendent became secretary of the board ex-officio, but under a provision of the new rules a secretary other than the superintendent is provided for and his duties defined. Another paragraph, Chapter III, Section 20, provides as follows:

"The superintendent of schools shall attend all meetings of the board, except when his election is in order or under discussion, but shall neither participate in any debate nor be recognized by the presiding officer when a question is before the committee except as provided by general law; all recommendations of the superintendent of teachers, text books, and courses of study shall be submitted in writing."

It is very evident that the purpose of this section is to gag the superintendent, while the election of somebody else to serve as secretary would create a new position where none is necessary. Moreover, it can be readily realized that if the secretary of the school board were controlled by a political clique, matters in that body would soon be still worse than at present. We fail to see wherein the interests of the schools would be advanced by such changes; but perhaps that is not the purpose in view.

FIRE PREVENTION CAMPAIGN

Fire Commissioner Glynn, of Boston, has addressed a circular to every large establishment in that city urging each to organize a private fire fighting force among its employees. That does not mean that each of the large stores is to maintain a fire department of its own, but merely, that the employees shall have fire drills in which certain parties in every department shall take the lead in using the extinguishers at hand in fighting any fires that may occur until the arrival of the city department. It means also, that somebody in every department will be under instruction to keep the fire hazards as low as possible. That alone will prevent many destructive fires in the course of a year.

This plan will help to stay the progress of the fire in the incipient stages, which everybody will admit is a most important consideration. Where the employees are drilled, they are put under discipline that will protect their own lives in case of a sudden outbreak of fire and at the same time provide that everything possible be done to fight its progress. It is an excellent idea and one which is calculated to reduce the fire losses to a minimum. It might well be adopted in every city of importance in the country.

AS TO HEALTH EDUCATION

In a lecture on the subject of Health Education in the Schools in the series on Building Better Citizenship at Boston College, Rev. Jones L. J. Corrigan, S. J., made some very strong points against the crowding of the school curriculum with what is termed "non-essential subjects, which fade out quickly." Nothing of that kind could happen in Lowell at any show.

SIMPLIFIED SPELLING

An immigrant was called before an inspector at Ellis Island to have his mentality tested. Assuming a look of dignity, the inspector preposed this question: "If I gave you a dog, this man gave you a dog, this other man gave you a dog, how many dogs would you have?" "Five dogs," replied the immigrant. "Now listen carefully," continued the somewhat irritated inspector. "If I give you a dog, this man gave you a dog, this other man gave you a dog, and that man gave you a dog, how many dogs would you have?" "Five dogs," again answered the candidate for admission to the United States. "For the love of Mike man," cried the irritated inspector, "how could you have five dogs?" "Well, you see," calmly replied the immigrant. "I have one of me own."

FIGHTING DISEASE

The death rate of tuberculosis among Americans has been cut in two in the last 50 years, says Dr. Stephen J. Major, chairman of the New England Tuberculosis conference. On the other hand, many other diseases are increasing their death toll, cancer especially. We also have epidemics, like Spanish flu, that were practically unknown to people of a half century ago.

In solving one problem, we usually create several new ones. And as fast as we protect our health in one direction, Nature attacks us in another. It is her old system of survival of the fittest—strengthening the race by making the individuals constantly fight to keep alive.

It looks as if the Oklahomans would eventually have two governments—one representing the Ku Klux Klan and the other the opposition, backed by Gov. Walton. It seems that there is likely to be bloodshed in that state before the present trouble is ended, unless the federal government interposes; but on the other hand, the federal authorities will have no adequate excuse for interference until there has been an outbreak that the local authorities cannot control.

There may be some graduates of the high school who have not yet contributed to the fund now being raised for the building of the athletic field of the school. There is here a problem for解决. The small sum of $5,000 is every community in the endeavor to sought this week and the plan of the reduce the number of such accidents school is to put it over the top by at least $1,000 additional. The sum of $5,000 could be conveniently used in the operation of motor vehicles which are probably the most numerous on the public streets of every American city.

It is significant that in 109 cities throughout the United States there were 11.4 deaths with 10,000 cars registered and 12.8 for every 100,000 population. It is a sad waste of human life and although vigorous efforts are being made to reduce the number of such accidents, yet their number keeps on increasing.

STAMPEDE

In the darkness of a New York movie theatre, Robert Pastra rose to leave. His seat was halfway to the orchestra, but his first move was observed by the patrons standing four deep in the rear. Pastra was suddenly trampled upon and some hours afterwards he woke up in Bellevue hospital. He tells the surgeons that he had barely risen and stepped into the dark aisle when eight big women, in competition for the

"What has become of talk about beer on prescription? It was to be for medicinal purposes, of course," inquired an interested person. "We druggists didn't want it," was answered. "They would have brought you business," the first man insisted. "In one direction, maybe, and lost it in another." "Huh!" grunted the other. "Beer would have called for pretzels and pretty soon there would have been singing at the soda counter."

The Lawyer Won

One of Mississippi's most famous criminal lawyers was attending a convention in New Orleans, where he engaged in an argument with a physician over the relative merits of their professions. "I don't say that all lawyers are crooks," said the physician, "but you'll have to admit that most of you cloth don't make angels." "You doctors have the better of us in that respect."

Couldn't Fool Sandy

His English friends had prevailed upon him to accompany them to a race meeting. Arriving there, Sandy—for he was a Scot—soon overcame his scruples to stake half a crown on a horse. It was an outsider, but imagined his delight when it came in first at heavy odds. He hurried to the bookmaker, who rather grudgingly, it seemed, doffed out his winnings. Careful Sandy examined each coin, and the bookmaker, glancing at him, remarked: "Well, are you afraid you're bad?" "No, but I was just markin' that the bad one a gied ye wasn't among them."

Haste Makes Waste

Charles Klauder, the architect, said at a dinner in Philadelphia: "American architecture stands today as high as in the world, but there was a time when we were almost proud of our terrible Jerry-builders. An American, gazing at the stupendous and laetlike masses of the Spanish cathedral of Toledo, said to his guide: 'How long did it take to turn up this affair?' 'Five hundred years, senor,' the guide answered. The American gave a contemptuous laugh. 'Five hundred years? God's smoke!' he said. 'Why, over in God's own country we could build a structure like that and have it fall to pieces on one hand all inside of two or three years.'

Autumn Dreams

When the maple turns to crimson
And the sassafras to gold;
And the aster on the world;
When the noon is lapped in vapor;
And the night is frosty-cold;

When the chestnut-burrs are opened,
And the acorns fall to the ground;
And the drowsy pine is stately;
With the thumping of the tail,
And the drumming of the partridge;
And the whistle of the quail;

Through the rustling woods I wander,
Trough the jewels of the year;
From the yellow uplands calling;
Seeking her that still is dear;
She is near me in the autumn,
She, the beautiful, is near;

Through the smoke of burning sun-mmer,
When the weary winds are still,
I can see her in the valley,
I can hear her on the hill—
In the splendor of the woodlands,
In the whisper of the rill;

For the shores of earth and heaven
Meet and mingle in the blue;
She can wander down the glen,
To the places that she knew,
Where the happy loves wandered
In the days when life was true;

So I think, when days are sweetest,
And the world is wholly fair,
She may sometime sit upon me,
Through the dimness of the air,
With the cross upon her bosom,
And the amaranth in her hair;

Once to meet her, ah! to meet her,
And to hold her gently fast,
Thou blessed her, till she blessed me,
That were happiness at last;
That were bliss beyond our meeting
In the autumn of the past.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

During the course of Tuesday's noonday luncheon of the Rotary club, Commandant Joseph A. Molloy of Lowell, American Legion, told his fellow Rotarians a striking little human interest story that had its beginning back in the days when the flower of American manhood was serving Uncle Sam in France.

Commander Molloy recently was in Rutland and visited the veterans' hospital. In the course of his trip around the institution he ran across a young lad who was a private in the outfit in France. The boy, and Capt. Molloy says he was a mere stripling of seventeen in the days of the St. Mihiel drive, is recovering nicely from the effects of wounds and the gassing he got over there. He was quite happy and was glad to see his former company commander.

In visiting his fellow Rotarians to keep the disabled veterans in mind for auto rides in spare Sunday hours, Commander Molloy mentioned an incident in which this youth figured overseas.

"It was just after the close of the St. Mihiel drive," said the speaker, "and after raining steadily for over a week it had cleared up a bit. We had just located in a town and I had several men out getting identifications. They were interviewing captured Germans, taking 'dog-tags' and such stuff in an effort to find out just what German troops were in front of us. This lad and a grizzled old regular sergeant were in the detail.

"The marines had backed us in our part of the drive and General Neville, commanding the marine brigade, came to town that afternoon to find just how things were with us. He decided to establish his headquarters there and picked out a fine house for himself.

"The general was wearing a fine new overcoat which he had just received from Paris. He was soaking wet, however, from the continuous rain of the past week and on entering his new home hung the heavy overcoat up to dry on a nail just outside the door of the house.

"The marine overcoat differs from the army overcoat as many of you know. Where an army officer's rank is shown by braid on the sleeve, the marine officers wear shoulder insignia and have a lot of fantastic fanfanges of some sort on the sleeve. The color instead of olive drab in the army is of a green tint similar to some German uniforms.

"This young lad is now up in the hospital passed by with the old regular sergeant shortly after the general had hung up the coat. He didn't know what it was and the old soldier had no difficulty in convincing the kid he should cut the sleeves off and bring them in for identification. The kid had just cut away the second sleeve when out of the house came the general.

"You can imagine the scene. The kid even then wasn't sure whether he was talking to a real live general or not and as to damage, dismissed it saying, 'I've got some money due me down to the company; go down there and they'll fix you up all right.'

"A year ago I met Gen. Neville in New York and we had a hearty laugh when we recalled the incident. Gen. Neville asked me then to locate that boy for him if I could as he had one of the sleeves he wished to send him as a souvenir. I proceeded to do so as possible and only two Sundays ago accidentally ran across the boy in that hospital.

"This morning I received a letter from the kid and I want to read part of it to you." Commander Molloy read the letter which consisted of a true soldierly appeal of a youngster who said he was "all right" but wished his old captain could do something towards untangling the hitch that had held back his "buddy" on the banks next to me here" from getting his compensation. The "buddy" a hospital acquaintance, was a Nashua boy in whose behalf the lotion lost no time in getting busy. The ending of the letter mentioned Capt. Molloy's intention of sending the youngsters address to General Neville.

"If you haven't seen that general address yet I wish you wouldn't do it, please Captain," said the boy. "I prefer to have that writer be one of the closed incidents of my life."

It was too late for Commander Molloy had already notified Gen. Neville of the youngster's plight and address and he had probably heard from the gallant marine commander by this time.

Walking through Middle street yesterday afternoon I noticed a large party of pigeons in the street near a grain supply house. An inquiry brought the information that fully a hundred of these birds make their regular boarding place there. There is sufficient grain left on the sidewalk there from the continual loading and unloading to provide them with an easy living.

"The Rosary" continues as the world's best-selling song. It has been translated into every language and has earned more money than any other song ever written. Its popularity threatens the supremacy even of "Dixie," which long since became an international tune. The really phenomenal part is that "The Rosary" has jazz, so there's still hope for our generation.

Preparing statistics in the probate department of the district court is not a sinecure, according to Joseph L. Cronin, who has charge of that work. Yesterday Mr. Cronin released his report for the fiscal year of 1922-'23 and the compilation of figures, accurate to the minutest detail, required several hours of labor. Besides the yearly report, Mr. Cronin's department is also responsible for a monthly report which likewise entails much work. Court officer Michael Dowd lends valuable assistance in this.

VOCATIONAL SCHOOL EVENING CLASSES

Evening classes at the Vocational schools are well filled. A total of 1150 at the various girls' vocational classes has practically filled the classes to capacity. The Girls' Vocational school on John street, where classes in millinery, dressmaking, home nursing, embroidery and cooking were started on Monday evening, has been drawing away several applicants for the various classes because of lack of room in the classes.

Those who were unable to enter the first unit classes are on the waiting list and will be notified as soon as there are vacancies.

LOWELL MAN TESTIFIES AT COAL HEARING

Charles H. Pritchard of the Lowell Gas Light Co. testified yesterday in Boston before the special legislative committee which is investigating the coal situation in reference to the production of coke.

Mr. Pritchard said that his company is now manufacturing about 200 tons of coke monthly, which is selling for $14.50 per ton, with the price for anthracite at $17 per ton. He further stated that a systematic campaign is necessary to educate the people generally to use coke, and that his company was trying to get a permanent market for coke in order to keep down the price of gas.

MEETING YESTERDAY AT MOREY SCHOOL

The first fall meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Charles W. Morey school was held yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the school auditorium. H. H. Brase, instructor in education at the local Normal school, was the speaker of the day and gave an interesting talk on "The Meaning of Education to the Child."

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Charles E. Cook, president, and the secretary, Mrs. Amy Davis, read the minutes of the last meeting. Mrs. Davis' resignation was then read and accepted and a rising vote of thanks given her for her efficient services as secretary.

Headmaster William W. Bennett gave a short talk on the junior high school and explained several changes that have been made since the opening of the fall term.

Mr. Brase was next introduced and his talk was followed closely by the interested gathering. He told of the different periods in the child's development, mental and physical, from the primary to the high school and outlined the methods of education used now as compared with those in use 20 years ago. In conclusion he stressed the need of education for purposes of social efficiency and to carry out the heritage of the race.

Following Mr. Brase's talk a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments served by a committee headed by Mrs. Robert Kennedy.

The program opened at 8:30 o'clock when Pierre Leblanc, president of the local court welcomed the guests and members. J. Armand Gelinas, toastmaster of the evening, then took the chair. The musical entertainment program consisted of violin selections by

The general committee of the Y.M.C.I. show, "Under the Spotlight, 1924," held a meeting in Y.M.C.I. hall last night with Martin Conley in the chair. Samuel O'Neill was unanimously elected secretary of the general committee and Michael O'Keefe, treasurer. The following heads of sub-committees were also appointed: Publicity, Patrick Farrell; finance, James Burns.

The 1924 presentation is to be given on Thanksgiving evening, Nov. 29 and on Friday evening, Nov. 30, in the Memorial Auditorium. It has not been decided yet whether general dancing will follow the performances.

After last night's meeting, "open house" was held in the Stackpole street clubrooms. Dancing and entertainment was enjoyed by the members and their friends, the program being arranged by Frank O'Neill, Joseph Finnerty, Jas. Gillogley and William Walsh.

PLAN EXHIBITION OF PLOWMAN ETCHINGS

An exhibition of etchings by George T. Plowman of Cambridge, under the auspices of the Lowell Art Association, will be shown at Whistler house from Oct. 16 until the Thanksgiving season. A Christmas exhibition will then replace the Plowman showing.

Centennial year at Whistler house will be observed during the first two months of 1924 by a special commemorative series including many Lowell prints, drawings and pictures. A candle light ball is planned as an opening feature for this occasion.

These Girls too Ill to Attend School

At no age does a young girl need greater care than from the time she reaches the age of twelve years until womanhood is established. Many a woman has suffered years of misery because as a girl she has been allowed to sit around with wet feet, lift heavy articles, overwork and overstudy. In all such cases Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be given as it is especially adapted for such conditions. It is a root and herb medicine, contains nothing harmful and may be taken in perfect safety by any school girl.

This Mother's Letter and Daughter's Photograph of Interest to Every American Mother

NORTH BALTIMORE, OHIO.—"My fourteen-year-old daughter took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound every month for weakness. One of her classmates in school who had the same trouble told her about it. She said: 'My mother makes me take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.' So that day she came home and told me and we got some the next day. She took three bottles of it and never has to stay home from school now from sickness. She is strong and well. I am sure if any mother writes to me I will be glad to answer her letter."—Mrs. Vliegher, Box 61, North Baltimore, Ohio.

Another Mother Tells What It Did for Her Daughter

DANDRIDGE, TENN.—"My daughter was not able to go to school for almost a year because of pain in her side and other troubles girls often have. I was just studying one day what I could give her that would help her when I thought of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and decided I would get it for her. Since taking it she has gained to normal weight and goes to school all the time."—Mrs. GEORGE HINCHET, Dandridge, Tenn.

TIGERS AND INDIANS BATTLE FOR SECOND PLACE IN AMERICAN LEAGUE

REVIVAL OF INTEREST IN FIGHT FOR RUNNER-UP TO YANKEES

Detroit Wins Over Chicago, While Cleveland Drops Game to St. Louis—Indians Have Very Slight Lead—Athletics Win Over Senators—Braves Beaten

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Detroit's victory over the White Sox and Cleveland's defeat by the Browns occasioned a revival of interest in the battle for second place honors in the American League, for the Tigers have a percentage of .530 as against .531 for the Indians.

The ability of Daus to tighten up in the pinches, was in a great measure responsible for Detroit's 5 to 5 win over Kid Gleason's clan, while Van Gilder's excellent boxmanship, coupled with heavy and timely hitting by his

NEW WORLD'S SERIES RECORDS ASSURED

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—One new world's series record will result from the coming tilt between the New York Giants and Yankees, while the McGrawmen will have an opportunity to create another and the Huggins crew equal one now in the books.

The new record that is assured is the meeting of the same clubs for the third year in succession. The nearest approach to this mark was when Chicago Cubs and Detroit Tigers met in the series of 1907 and 1908, the Tigers won again the next year, but the Cubs beat the Pirates from the sides of the Cub in the National League, and they gave the Cubs their third straight series setback.

If the Giants win this year, it will be the third world's championship in succession for Detroit, a feat no other club has ever accomplished. In that event, the Yankees also would automatically, the record of losing three series in a row held by the Giants and Tigers. The Giants lost in 1911 and 1913 in the Philadelphia Athletics, and in 1912 to the Boston Red Sox.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL TEAMS

The four junior high schools, the Moran, Bartlett, Varnum and Butler are to have football teams this season and the instructors in charge have begun operations to form first-class outfit. Many candidates were out on the various fields yesterday and among the latter part of the new members of the junior high teams to be played.

The high school should profit by the experiment. There are several baskeball working out under Joseph Duffy at the Bartlett school, Paul Sullivan at the Butler, Francis O'Brien at the Varnum and James Roome at the Moran. Should they make the new teams next year they will be better prepared for the end of the game when they go out for Jimmie Lister's varsity eleven.

FIRST GAME OF BIG TRIANGULAR SERIES

With the Yankees in into the series ungodified of the fact that the team has twice proven easy for the Giants. That is going to be the big test for the American League pennant winners.

Will they be able to forget that on the bench sits John McGraw, manager of the Giants, who in two series has outdistanced them in a most decisive manner?

Kid Gleason has touched on the high spot of the series when he makes reference to the manner in which the Giants have overwhelmed the Yanks in the last eight games played between the two clubs, the best the Yankees have been able to do is tie one game.

The Mental Attitude

In baseball certain teams seem to have something on other teams, in other words they are always able to beat them a majority of the times. Have the Giants something on the Yankees, who despite the opinion of the best experts of the country have ruled leaders of the American Leagues in world contests?

Can the Yankees forget the scandal triumph of 1911 and 1912?

Can the Yankees forget the fact that in the last three games played between the two clubs they failed to win a single contest?

Can the Yankees forget that the Indians announced them on the basis and was soon names that should have been veterans for Babe Ruth and Company?

Can the Yankees forget the fact that despite expert opinion to the contrary, the pitching staff of the Giants stopped being?

The mental attitude of the Yankees

THREE HUSKIES LEAD THE BIG THREE

It would never, never do to start the football season without printing pictures of captains of the Yale, Harvard and Princeton football squads. The world's first progressive sporting editor did this and the sacred tradition has been conscientiously observed ever since. No ardent follower of football will be persuaded that the season is actually under way until he picks up his favorite sporting sheet and sees the fine old friendly art lines, "Leaders of the Big Three." We present them herewith. Messrs. Snively of Princeton, Hubbard of Harvard, and Mallory of Yale are ranking guards, two of the best in the game. Mallory is a fullback, a great one, and on the defensive, the greatest football has known in years.

EXPECT RECORD CROWD AT MOODY CLUB BOUTS

Judging from the demand for reservations from local fans as well as those from Lawrence, Boston, Woburn, Nashua and other places a record crowd will be at the ringside at tomorrow night's meeting at the Moody Club in Crescent Park when Young Tansey of Roxbury and Willie Gradwell of Somerville square off for their rubber contest.

Tansey and Gradwell have met twice, once in Revere and a second time in Boston, the former winning. To whom the black mark both have been seeking a third meeting. It was indeed fortunate for the local club to land the tit-bit Boston and other clubs would like such an attraction. Tansey had been taken down to Boston for a couple of weeks to meet Johnny Avera. When the latter was forced to withdraw Tansey was asked if he would meet Gradwell. His reply was, "Yes, get him, I owe him a beating." When Gradwell was approached he said: "Be sure and get Tansey's name on the contract for I'm afraid if you don't hell run out." When informed Tansey had already been signed he expressed delight.

The two men have been training diligently all week. Tansey has been working out with Eddie Shevin and several others while Gradwell has been boasting with Red Chapman and other capable boys. Both are said to be in the "pink" and anxious for the sound of the bell. It looks like a great battle.

There is also much interest in tomorrow night's semi-final as two light heavyweight, Eddie Record of Nashua and Battling McLeod of Cambridge will meet. Both are huskies who can move fast and hit hard.

Phiney Boyle is training daily for his return bout with Frankie Quill at Nashua on next Monday night. Quill has agreed to meet him at 8 o'clock and the local boxers feel that if his opponent gets down to the mark he will have little difficulty in beating him. In their former meeting the pair engaged in a fast ten round slug-fest with the referee calling it a draw, and from Nashua comes the demand for a second, indicates a capacity house. Already half of the reserved section is disposed of.

"What do you think about the series if the Giants play the Yanks?"

Recently, while chatting with Kid Gleason, famous manager of the Chicago White Sox, I asked that question.

Kid Gleason and John McGraw are players of the old school. In their day, stars on the ball field, both have reached an enviable position in the managerial end of the game.

"The Yanks are sure a great club," he continued. "Capable of beating any team in the country when at the top of the game and equally ordinary when in a slump."

In truth the Yankees have the most valuable players in baseball, even in baseball. He has been a wonder this year, playing brilliantly in all departments of the game. When he is going big the Yanks are almost unbeatable. But will he go big in the series?

George Parker, who under the name of "Kid" Gleason has created a sensation in and around Montreal, winning the championship of his class is visiting relatives and friends in Lowell. He has come into the State recently announcing that he expects to soon return to the Dominion but before going back he hopes to meet some worthy opponent in this city. He is ready to tackle any boy of his weight.

FUNERAL PYRES STILL BURNING

Residents of Tokio Flock to
Worship and Pray for
Spirits of the Departed

Feared Winter Will Bring in
Its Wake a Heavy Toll
From Pulmonary Diseases

TOKYO, Oct. 2 (by the Associated Press).—A month after Japan's greatest earthquake finds funeral pyres still burning in Honjo and Futagawa wards and in other districts of Tokyo, where bodies are being taken from the ruins. Besides these pyres are many shrines where relatives of the dead flock to worship and to pray for the spirits of the departed.

Despite the need of haste in disposing of bodies to prevent epidemics and in clearing away debris so the city can be rebuilt in a measure before the rigors of winter set in, the bereaved are finding time to perform the simpler rites of mourning.

Shanties of every description have sprung up over the devastated area, especially in the low lying districts, giving protection from rains, but not from floods, and it is feared that winter will bring in its wake a heavy toll of death from pulmonary diseases.

"They shops with scant stocks have sprung up everywhere. One of the busiest thoroughfares of the city now is Asakusa, leading to the famous Buddhist temple Sensoji, dedicated to Kwan-yin, Goddess of Mercy. Before the fire this street was the centre of Tokio's Coney Island.

The teahouse and theatre are gone. In their place are the little shanty shops with their keepers standing in the door and shouting their wares. The 30-day moratorium, which terminated yesterday, apparently has had little effect on the money market. The Tokyo clearing house has resumed business and all the banks have reopened except one small institution. The banks prepared for unusual demands but depositors are withdrawing only what money they require for immediate necessities.

FIRST FALL MEETING BY EDUCATIONAL CLUB

The first fall meeting of the Educational club was held at Kilson hall yesterday, with Mrs. E. D. Leggat presiding, and a large attendance present. The roll was called by the secretary, Mrs. W. S. Jesson, and several matters discussed. Adoption of the by-laws was postponed to Oct. 16 at the current events meeting. A delightful entertainment program arranged by Mrs. John McCord followed the business session. She was accompanied by Miss Katherine Gracees. Miss Irene Hagan then sang "Dandy Boy" and "When Pershing's Men Go Marching In" in a pleasing mezzo soprano voice. Her encore was "Smiling Through." The program closed with two descriptive recitations by Miss Irene McKenzie entitled "A Little Quaker Sinner" and "The Maleden Aunt."

Refreshments were served by the hospitality committee, Mrs. A. M. Richert, chairman; Mrs. Thomas Leek and Mrs. J. Field Specil toured and Mrs. John McCord, Mrs. Louis Browning, Mrs. Ellen Freeman served. A very pretty Jack Horner pie with candy

AUTOS LOCK HORNS IN EAST MERRIMACK ST.

An automobile collision at 5:30 this morning tied up traffic on East Merrimack street, near the square, for about 20 minutes while the two machines were being freed apart and disrupted the electric car schedules for about the same length of time, or cars going out or coming in East Merrimack street. A truck driven by Edward Stanton of Tewksbury backed out from the alley in back of the Fairburn building and drove into the rear of an auto driven by Alton S. Brown, Jr., of Lowell, and mounted its running board. For a few minutes it seemed that a wrecker would have to be called as the two machines were locked together. Hulme, driver of Stanton's auto, sprang to his feet and ran to the rescue, however, with one of the big ear jacks and freed the two machines separated within a few moments. Neither car was seriously damaged.

the Ford's mudguard and running board being punctured in several places and the larger truck having only minor damages to its right mudguard.

A BETTER SHAMPOO

It contains considerably more cocoanut oil than the ordinary shampoos, making it not only a greater cleanser, but more economical as well.

GOURAUD'S ORIENTAL COCOANUT OIL SHAMPOO

thoroughly removes all dust, dirt and dandruff from the hair, leaving a clean, healthy scalp. The brilliant, wavy appearance obtained is due to the scientific proportioning of cocoanut oil, which glosses the hair and stimulates the roots into greater activity. Gouraud's Oriental Cocoanut Oil Shampoo is so far superior that the difference is noticeable at once.

The name "Gouraud" is backed by over 80 years of public confidence. Gouraud's Oriental Cream, Gouraud's Cold Cream and Gouraud's Oriental Cocoanut Oil are products which have won world-wide fame through exceptional merit.

WHEN STARS CEASE TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES TO SHINE

BY N.E.A. SERVICE

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 3.—What becomes of the stars when they stop shining? And what becomes of the would-be stars who fail to shine? The answer is easy—they go into business.

Selling real estate is the most popular (and most profitable) activity among both men and women, but nearly every shop on Hollywood boulevard holds someone whose movie hopes are blasted.

Irene Chadwick, for instance, announces that just as soon as her contract with Goldwyn expires she is going into the real estate business. Selling land in Hollywood will swell her income quicker than acting in motion pictures will. (But then, of course, it's a question whether any company would sign the temperamental Irene up with the memory of her suit to make Goldwyn give her more publicity fresh in mind.)

Perhaps you remember Magda Lane, the Swiss beauty who was Herb Rawlinson's leading woman in one picture, and starred in two-reel westerns for Universal. She was pretty enough but not an actress enough. She wisely recognized this herself, and now she's in charge of an information bureau for tourists in a Los Angeles department store.

Yvette Mitchell brought her almond-shaped eyes and shiny black hair to Hollywood before the craze for oriental characters began. She played a few parts. Now she's happy selling exotic perfumes in a Los Angeles department store.

You saw Nell Newman's name on the screen in some of Nazimova's Metro pictures. Now she's secretary of the Girls' Studio club, Hollywood branch of the Y.W.C.A.

Irene Hunt was a star in Biograph days. She still plays for the motion camera occasionally. But most of the time she helps her husband run his exclusive millinery shop.

Truly Shantuck is known to vaudeville audiences everywhere. She's played in motion pictures some, but her permanent "credit card" is hung over the cafe she runs at Schulberg studio.

Two movie heavies, Walter Long and Tom Kennedy, are respectively manager and matchmaker at the Hollywood American Legion stadium where boxing matches are held Tuesday.

Remember Ward Wing, handsome juvenile? He even produced a picture or two himself. Now he sells automobiles. He intends to use his profits to produce more films.

Margaret Shelly, Mary Miles Minter's sister, once tried screen acting.

Now she's in the real estate business.

There are four MacQuarrie brothers on the legitimate stage who started to be movie actors. Now Murdock MacQuarrie is the only actor of the family. Frank, George and Albert find real estate more profitable. Even talented directors lead a lay-

"GOSH, WHAT A BIG LAWN!"

That's what Laddie Buck, successor to Laddie Boy, is probably thinking. He's just arrived at the White House, and is seen photographed with Colonel M. C. Buckey, a cousin of the donor who is Miss Marguerite Calhoun of Atlanta, Ga.

man's life on occasion. During the summer stump in film activity, Rollin Sturgeon, who developed many scenes to stardom, opened a real estate track on Cabuenga Pass and sold residence sites to his friends. He's back at the megaphone now—directing Glenn Hunter in "West of the Water Tower" for Lasky.

PARIS, Oct. 2.—The French courts WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Conferees today refused to grant the temporary injunction asked by Frank J. 10 SECRET INDICTMENTS

Effort to Put Stop to Series of Embezzlements From Banks in Boston

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—Three arrests were made today on 10 secret indictments returned by the federal grand jury in what was declared by the government attorneys to be an effort to put a stop to a series of minor embezzlements from national banks in this city. Pleas of not guilty were entered by Harold A. Ham, Stewart H. Neill, Jr., and James T. Hodgens, all employed by the National Shawmut bank, and they were held in $500 bonds each for a hearing later.

Ham, a bookkeeper, indicated for making false entries and embezzling $365; Neill for embezzeling $966 and abstracting $1006, and Hodgens for abstracting $307.

FATHER OF MRS. WEBB FILES OBJECTIONS

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Samuel J. Gorman, Sr., father of Mrs. Charles Webb, who died under alleged mysterious circumstances at Rye last week, today objected to the probating of his daughter's will, which left all her estate, estimated at $2,000,000, to her husband. The will was offered for probate yesterday.

Mr. Gorman's objections were based on the grounds that the will offered yesterday was not the last will of his daughter; that it was not properly executed according to law; that she lacked capacity at the time to execute the will; that if it was executed by her, it was not her free act; and that she was unduly influenced in the execution of it. The objections do not state who unduly influenced her.

PEARLBROOK, Oct. 2.—Medical Examiner H. K. Foster will apply to the district attorney for authority to hold an autopsy on the body of Michael Martinick, four years old, of this town who was found lying in the middle of Walnut street this morning at 9:30 and who died before he could be removed to the hospital.

NEW BEDFORD, Oct. 2.—Denouncing the voting slacker, both men and women, within the republican party, Congressman William S. Greene of Fall River declared that majority of the senators elected this year had been sent to the senate by the vote of the minority.

"THAR! SHE BLOWS"

This harpoon held by Captain Gustavus Peterson, in command of an antarctic whaling expedition soon to embark from Seattle, is fired from a deck gun, and when it hits, more corset stays and blubber oil will start homeward.

BIG JUMP IN COTTON PRICES

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The unexpectedly small gleaning figures reported by the census bureau this morning, coupled with strong Liverpool cables caused a jump of 31 to 48 points in cotton prices at the opening. This was quickly followed by further upturns that carried October contracts to 29.55 and December to 29.10, or over $4 a bale over Monday's close and was within 80 points of the season's high level.

TWO HELD IN SHOOTING

Youths Plead Guilty of Assault With Intent to Kill School Teacher

WORCESTER, Oct. 2.—William Hoppeki and Edmund Cashy, both 17 years of age, pleaded guilty in central district court today to charges of assault with intent to kill Miss Anna M. Leo, a teacher in Cambridge street public school, by shooting at her yesterday when she refused to give them money after they had entered the schoolroom where she was teaching and they were held in $2,000 each for superior court. On charges of breaking into a store the night of August 25, and stealing the revolvers with which they made the holdup, they were held in $500 each. Both youths have police records, and the police say they confessed to planning the holdup of the teacher and then fired at her through the window because they were angered at her refusal to give them money.

"WOLF OF WALL STREET" LOCATED IN MEXICO

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—David Lamar, known as the "Wolf of Wall street," has been located by department of justice agents in Mexico. He disappeared a year or so ago after being sentenced in New York in connection with a stock market transaction.

The crime of which he was convicted is not covered under the extradition treaties with Mexico, but President Obregon after Lamar had been located, issued an order for his deportation as an undesirable, according to department of justice officials. Lamar now is at Torreon, fighting deportation. In case he is unsuccessful, he will be met at the border by government agents and taken to New York.

London's police comprise a staff of 26,114.

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 20

Ruby Lips looked real cute when she had seated herself in the wheelbarrow, and she was so small that it was easy for Jack to push her. They had not traveled very far when Flip hopped up into Ruby's lap and upset the wheelbarrow, Ruby Lips and all. Such a commotion!

Fortunately the little girl was not hurt. Jack started to scold his dog when Ruby Lips shouted, "Don't blame him! He was tired too." So Jack just laughed and helped Ruby Lips back into the wheelbarrow. And soon they reached a great long line of beautiful chests.

Ruby Lips hopped out of the wheelbarrow and walked up to the first chest. As she opened the lid she said, "This chest is filled with rubies and it is the chest I was named after." Jack peered inside and saw hundreds of very beautiful red stones. (Continued.)

"HELLO!" SAID ANDY ANTELOPE, "WHO ARE YOU?"

Little Andy Antelope was the most curious person you ever know.

He was so curious that the two funny sharp horns just beginning to grow on top of his whitish brown head looked almost like two question marks, his shiny eyes being the dots underneath.

And he was as pretty as a picture, too, with two broad white stripes across his throat, and white spots on his back beside his wet nubbin of a tail, which was really no tail at all.

One day he deliberately walked off from his mother, who was very careful of him, and started on his travels.

"I'm going to see the world," he said to himself. "I want to see what it's made of, and who lives on it, and what they know. I've got a hundred questions to ask."

So off he chattered on his four little hoofs. He followed the creek till he came to the plain. Then he went along and along and along.

By 'nd by he came to a puddle pond, which was sometimes there but mostly wasn't.

Just now it was there and it had company, the puddle pond had. It had a nice little frog that wandered over from the creek.

"Hello!" said Andy Antelope. "Who are you?"

"Taddy Frog," croaked the little green fellow.

Andy was watching. (To be Continued.)

CONGREGATIONAL CLUB

LOWELL DISTRICT COURT

Illustrated Lecture by George W. Nash, LL. D., Featured Last Night's Meeting

The 132d regular meeting of the Lowell Congregational club was held last night at the Pawtucket Congregational church and the main feature of the meeting was an illustrated lecture on "The Relation of Congregationalists to Education," given by George W. Nash, LL. D., president of the Congregational Foundation for Education at Chicago, Ill.

Prior to the meeting a supper was served in the vestry by the Ladies Social society of the church under the direction of Mrs. Oscar P. Ellis. The members of the Amica class served. During the supper an orchestra composed of Ethel Vance, Czarina Bartlett, Harry Grinnell and Harry Swain played several numbers. Sidney R. Fleet was in charge of the musical program and Mrs. A. G. Bennett had charge of the decorations.

The meeting was called to order by Rev. William B. Tuthill, D.D., president, and the minutes of the last meeting were read by Secretary Louis Alexander and were approved by the members. Louis A. Olney spoke briefly on the School of Religious Education and urged the members of the club to attend. A group of bass solos were given by Edward L. Gerry, accompanied by Mr. Fleet.

Dr. Nash was then introduced in the gathering and he vividly described the work of the colleges of the country.

He stated that there were about 70 colleges in this country with which the Congregational church is connected. He named the schools and pictures of them were thrown on the screen and explained their activities as the pictures were shown.

Among the colleges mentioned were Andover Theological, now affiliated with Harvard; Dartmouth, Williams, Middlebury, Amherst, Mt. Holyoke, Smith, American International at Springfield, Oberlin, Bangor seminary, Maitland, Oliver, Ripon, Milwaukee, Downer, Whentton, Illinois college, Carleton, Palmer, Berkley school of Religion and Denison college.

—Other Cases

Bonnie Alford was arraigned in the district court this morning charged with a violation of the building laws, a charge that had been continued several times since June 28, the date of the original arraignment, and the case was again continued until one week from today.

State Inspector Joseph L. Cobb of Peabody prosecuted the case and he told of the infraction of the law made in connection with the non-completion of the fire escapes on the building.

Attorney Arthur C. Spalding appeared for the defendant and stated that the delay in the erection of the fire escapes was due to the manufacturer as the material had been ordered in time but several delays had been made and as a result, the state inspector had called Alford into court. He asked that a plea of no contest be accepted by the court.

Judge Enright, in summing up the charge, said, "If what was said about the fire escape manufacturers was true, they should be brought into court instead of Alford," and then granted the continuance for a week.

Liquor Law Violations

Vitale LaSavorelli was charged with keeping liquor with intent to sell and pleaded for a continuance until tomorrow, which was granted. Before the close of the court session, however, she withdrew her plea for a continuance and pleaded guilty. As it was her first offense Judge Enright assessed the usual $100 fine.

Josie Sarakchick was also charged with keeping liquor with intent to sell. The case was continued until the 11th and Josie was ordered to recognize in the sum of $200.

George J. Skalkas was charged with maintaining a liquor nuisance and his case was continued for one week upon plea of counsel.

Other Offenders

Benjamin Schmick was called to answer charge of drunkenness and, as he did not answer the call, was declared defaulted.

Joseph Gorski was brought into court on a capias warrant for failure to complete payments on a $10 fine imposed April 17. On promise to pay $1 a week until the remaining $5 was paid he was allowed to go free again.

Robert Duff was arraigned on two counts, one of driving a machine while under the influence of liquor and the other of drunkenness. He was granted a continuance until next Monday.

William A. Rhodes was arraigned on two similar counts, operating a machine while under the influence and drunkenness. This case was first called on Sept. 36 and was today continued until Oct. 10 for trial.

William O'Brien and George Shanley were charged with larceny and drunkenness, the larceny counts being for $1 taken from a house on Lakeview avenue on Sept. 24.

Officer John Gauley made the arrest and he testified as to the condition of the two men when arrested. Sergt. Phillip Dwyer also appeared for the government and he testified that O'Brien admitted taking the money while drunk, but that Shanley denied having anything to do with the theft. As restitution had been made, Judge Enright filed the larceny charge against O'Brien and the charges of drunkenness against both offenders and discharged the larceny charge against Shanley.

WOULD-BE-CITIZEN

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 3.—"Who is the president of the United States?" asked Judge Shay of Eugene Biazzo, an applicant for American citizenship here.

"Tex Rickard," was the prompt reply.

When the laughter subsided the court asked him who discovered America and he replied: "George Washington," forgetful of his illustrious compatriot.

Biazzo was sent back to study.

Sorley, chairman of the committee, presided. The contract for catering at the breakfast was awarded and return postals received from members showed that the amount of the contribution is assured. Rev. James V. Lynch, faithful friar, under whose direction the services at St. Michael's church will be held, is hopeful of a very fine showing next Sunday. As this is the first communion day since Father Lynch assumed the office, the members are anxious to attend in large numbers. The mass will be sung at 8 o'clock, the members leaving the K. of C. club at 7:30. Sir Knight Arthur J. O'Neill, F. N., will preside at the breakfast, and Daniel J. United Effort

THE marvelous precision and accuracy of "warp, weft and shuttle" in the loom, exemplify the efficiency of co-operation and united effort.

In sixty mills, more than 35,000 skilled workers are making a united effort to produce woolen and worsted fabrics of dependable value for the millions who need them.

And through that unity—the elimination of waste, the use of efficient machines and the co-operation which only fairly-treated employees can give—the American Woolen Company is annually producing millions of yards of fabric which enables the people to buy good clothing at fair prices.

MAINE WOMAN INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Mrs. Frank Oldham, 21 years old, of Farmington, Me., is in a serious condition at St. John's hospital with a probable fracture of the skull as the result of being struck by an automobile driven by Percy O. Russell of South Ashburnham, on Andover street, last evening. An X-ray will be taken today to determine the extent of her injuries.

Mrs. Oldham has been visiting her sister, Miss Harriet Spaulding, employed in the household of John Robertson, Jr., at 518 Andover street, and shortly after 7 o'clock last evening, she was returning to the Robertson home. As she alighted from an electric car and started to cross the road, she was struck.

Mr. Russell, driver of the auto, admitted that at the time of the accident he was driving without headlights, but he told the police that the lights had failed him only a few moments before.

Mrs. Oldham was rendered unconscious and was rushed to St. John's hospital, where she was treated by Dr. M. F. Cunha.

MASON'S TO AID K. OF C.
ON COLUMBUS DAY

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—Masons of Boston are to join with the Knights of Columbus in the municipal celebration of Columbus day. Mayor Curley announced yesterday that the Aleppo Drum corps, the Shriners' band of Boston, will play on the common at 5 o'clock.

The band, which is the largest organization of its kind in the United States, will be led by Director Louis Harlow. A special bandstand will be erected to accommodate the greatest of street bands. The program will last for upwards of an hour.

The concert will follow the Columbus day pageant which is being planned, and will bring the program to a climax. The members of the band, 185 of them, will be seated and uniformed. The band was invited to take part in the program by Mayor Curley. After the concert the musicians will escort the mayor and visiting dignitaries to a banquet at the Copley-Plaza.

The Aleppo Drum corps is in many respects remarkable. Its members are non-professionals in every walk of life, and are forbidden to receive compensation of any kind for all their work in the band. Every instrument known to street music is represented, and Director Harlow has adapted many indoor instruments to street use, besides creating a few which are used solely by his organization.

The band was originally a 25-piece drum corps. It has grown until its fame is known from coast to coast, in 1921 it had the honor of acting as personal escort to President Harding at the Plymouth tercentenary.

FORM NAVY CLUB HERE HELD SPIRITED MEETING

Lowell Ex-Navy Men Hold
Reunion and Plan to Organize Club

The reunion of ex-navy men from Lowell last night was attended by an enthusiastic crowd of over 100 service men. They congregated at the High school annex on Paige street at 7:30 and thence were transported to Willow Dale by trucks and tourist cars.

The first thing on the program after their arrival at the pavilion was the matter of forming a Lowell Navy club. The idea was enthusiastically received by those present and the project got away to a running start. Ed. Hard, who has devoted a great deal of his time to the promotion of this club, informed the gathering that he has the assurance of the 1st naval district officers and that every possible effort will be made to make the Lowell observance of Navy day, Saturday, Oct. 27, a great success. It is planned to have three or more whaleboats transported to Lowell for races on the Merrimack preceded by a parade of ex-boats through the downtown streets of the city. In the evening Congressman John Jacob Rogers is expected to address the sailors and their friends at an open meeting in the Auditorium. The navy department has agreed to lend an operator with films showing the life of the navy in every phase, and these will be shown after the speech-making is finished. At the conclusion of the films music will start for dancing until a late hour. Efforts are being made to secure a navy band for the occasion. As there are over a thousand ex-navy men in the Lowell district the day should be a banner one in Lowell history.

After the business was concluded boxing exhibitions were staged by Billy Murphy vs. Phinney Boyle and Young Nelson vs. Young Roche. These boys deserve lots of credit for volunteering their services and staging an exhibition that was not marred by any fake boxing. Their turn was greeted with great approval. A Dupont favored with gay songs and recitations which were enthusiastically received.

After the entertainment was concluded refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed. The verdict had been unanimous that a perfect evening had been provided and an early repeat is looked forward to.

Reighstag Parties Still Deadlocked

BERLIN, Oct. 2.—(By the Associated Press) At two o'clock this afternoon the Reichstag parties were still stubbornly deadlocked on the issues raised by the socialists. The latter were in caucus all the forenoon and then adjourned in order to report the party's sentiment to the cabinet. The socialists are demanding assurance that Chancellor Stresemann's proposed legislation will not discriminate against the working classes with regard to the eight-hour day and are also insisting that the central government assert its undiminished political and military authority in Bavaria.

By a roll call vote of 10 to 4 the city council last night passed the order giving to the Saco-Lowell Shops the right to erect an enclosed bridge over Dutton Street, connecting the present plant with the new structure now being built.

State Capitol Again Under Guard of State Troops—No Trouble Expected

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 3.—(By the Associated Press) A temporary restraining order preventing the state election board from certifying the returns from yesterday's special election was issued in state district court here today upon application of counsel for Gov. J. C. Walton.

The order was granted immediately after the executive's petition was filed before Judge Tom G. Chambers, Jr. It enjoins W. C. McAllister, secretary, John P. LAWRENCE POLICE FOLLOWING NEW CLUE TO MURDERER OF METHUEN OFFICER

A new clue to the murderer or murderers of Police Officer Arthur J. Powers of Methuen, in connection with the Rhode Island city.

The new clue leads to Providence and several Lawrence police inspectors have been given out for publication. Nothing has been given out for publication, however, and as yet there haven't been any material developments.

It is understood, however, that the police have been searching in Providence for a young woman, who is reported to have "squandered" and by so doing implicated a young man whose home is in Lawrence, and who, it has been learned, has been missing since the time of the murder. The description of this young man corresponds to the description of one of the men in the all-red murder car, it is said.

Whether or not the police have located the girl in Providence, they would not say.

Young Women Employes of Store Will Wear Various Creations Tomorrow Night

Lowell folk are to be afforded the opportunity of witnessing a first-class style show tomorrow night in connection with the Fall Opening of the Chalifoux store. The doors of the store will be open from 7 o'clock until 9:30 and arrangements have been made to properly handle the large crowds expected to attend. All of the various departments of the big store will have their fall lines on display for the occasion.

The most minute attention is being paid to the smallest details of arrangement and the show is expected to surpass anything of its nature held in Lowell. Arthur Shreve, display man for the Chalifoux company, will have charge of the show and is bending every energy to put it over big. He has the loyal and willing assistance of a corps of helpers from all departments of the store.

The Miner-Doyle orchestra has been secured to provide music during the evening and will give concerts on every floor in addition to playing during the style show.

As a distinctive feature of this show all of the girl mannequins used will be regular salesfolk of the Chalifoux store. Furniture settings appropriate for the show will be provided by the Atherton Company. The Chalifoux shoe department will provide the footwear used by the models. To make sure that they look their sweetest the experts of the store's beauty department will prepare all models for the show. The Ready to wear department promises a most extensive showing of all that is new in women's wear.

In addition to this feature male models will show the latest clothing in men's lines. Several models will be used and an extensive line of goods displayed for the inspection of the interested crowds expected to attend.

Child dancing pupils of Miss Doris Conley will give a bit of entertainment in connection with the pleasing program.

The Atherton Furniture Company, one of the departments of the store, is making special preparations to show the best of their goods during the opening and their display is certain to appear highly interesting.

Every department is co-operating fully and as a result a fine show is certain to be provided Lowell folk. What is thought will probably be the most interesting feature of the show is the wedding scene which will be participated in by Mrs. M. S. Soucie as the bride and Lauren Cote as the groom. This will be the opening number on the program of the style show and is expected to prove a premier feature.

The models participating in the order of their appearance, will be Arthur Cormier, Lincoln Cole, Josephine Cafferty, Marguerite Soucie, Madeline McCarron, and Emma Supreme, featuring Men's and Women's Fall Wear. Apparel, Miss Charlotte Haskell and Miss Katherine McCann will act as judges.

following week witness called at the Slaven house, but could not get in, although she heard some one walking around in the kitchen. Later witness and her brother, John, went to the Slaven house but could not get in. The following week witness again went to the Slaven house and after pounding on the door for five minutes, Mrs. Slaven opened the door and witness passed into the house, went to her uncle's room, and told him of the difficulty she had in getting in. Mrs. Slaven said she had been upstairs, and no comment was made by Mr. Norton.

This line of inquiry was objected to by Atty. Kerwin, counsel for the will, on the ground that it took place several months after the will was signed and was, therefore, immaterial. The court ruled it admissible, however.

Miss Mulry told of subsequent visits to her uncle at the Slaven home, about once each week. On one visit Mr. Norton wanted to smoke and witness filled his pipe. Mrs. Slaven objected to his smoking in bed, but Miss Mulry held the pipe for him while he enjoyed his smoke, she said.

Under cross-examination Miss Mulry admitted that she had not visited Mr. Norton's house for 10 years previous to Mrs. Norton's death. She denied there was any feeling between them, saying that the only reason she never visited the Nortons was because she was not in the habit of visiting.

"But you visited other houses, didn't you?" inquired Atty. Kerwin.

"Yes, houses in my neighborhood."

"But still you never once in 10 years visited your own blood relations?"

"I only went there when there was sickness," witness replied.

After Mrs. Norton's death witness said she visited Mr. Norton at least once each week up to the time of his death.

Miss Mulry admitted she knew Mrs. Donohue, but when they met on the street witness said she did not speak to her. Not that they had any trouble, but she just didn't care about speaking to Mrs. Donohue, she said. Witness denied that there was any feeling against the Donohues because they were friendly with Mr. Norton.

Miss Mulry further said that Mr. Norton many times called at the Mulry home, and frequently said that when he died he was going to leave his money to her. She denied that any of the Mulry family pressed Mr. Norton on the street and refused to speak to him.

"After Mrs. Norton's death, did you ask Mr. Norton to come and live with you, knowing that he was all alone?" inquired Atty. Kerwin.

"I don't remember."

"And did he answer, 'No, you have stayed away from me long enough'?"

"No, he never said that," replied the witness.

Miss Mulry admitted that Mrs. Slaven took care of Mr. Norton after Mrs. Norton's death, and so far as the witness knew, no one else took care of him. In answer to further questions witness said she never remained at Mr. Norton's house all night, or took care of him.

Miss Mulry admitted that neither she nor any of her family went to Mrs. Norton's funeral, or attended the funeral mass.

"But Mr. Norton wanted you to go to his wife's funeral, didn't he?" inquired Atty. Kerwin.

"Yes."

"Then why didn't you go?"

"Because Mr. Donohue didn't invite me," she answered.

In rebuttal Miss Mulry said that although she did not visit the Norton home from the time her aunt died, which was about 16 years before Mrs. Norton's death, she did call there regularly only each week after she could not get in, even though they pounded and kicked the door. No one came to the door, he said, although he heard someone walking around in the house.

On his visits to Mr. Norton after the latter suffered shock, Mr. Mulry said that frequently Mr. Norton did not recognize him, but after he told Mr. Norton who he was, they talked along general lines.

Witness corroborated his sister's testimony that he heard his uncle say several times that he would leave his money to Mary Mulry. He denied that there was ever any unfriendliness toward Mr. Norton.

A further record was introduced to show that on February 8, 1921, an order was signed by Mrs. Norton for Savings to pay Mary Donohue $100. The court instructed the jury that no inference of undue influence was to be drawn by this, other than to show that Mrs. Donohue and Michael J. Donohue knew that there was a bank account in the name of Mary Norton.

Further records were introduced to show that on April 23, 1921, the entire amount was drawn from the bank by Mr. Norton, with Mr. Donohue, Mr. Kelley and Mrs. Slaven furnishing security on a bond.

John J. Mulry, a police officer, and one of the contestants, was the next witness called. He said Mr. Norton was his uncle. When Mrs. Norton died, witness said he was ill in bed and was physically unable to call at the Norton home until after the funeral. When he did call, Mr. Norton did not recognize him and his sister said: "This is John, uncle." Then they talked over old times for about an hour, he said, but during that time there was nothing said about a will. On later visits also, witness said Mr. Norton never mentioned anything about a will.

After Mr. Norton was removed to the Slaven house, Mr. Mulry said he called there with his sister, but they could not get in, even though they pounded and kicked the door. No

Fisher, whom he understood at the time was acting for the Mulry family, who are contestants in the will.

Under cross-examination, the witness testified that he asked Mr. Norton a series of questions. Among the questions asked Mr. Norton were whether he could name the president who had been assassinated, and Mr. Norton named Lincoln and Garfield, but didn't remember McKinley. Asked if this led him to the conclusion that Mr. Norton was feeble-minded, the witness stated that his conclusion was not based solely on one item.

Among the other questions asked of Mr. Norton were, Who was the commander of the French forces in the Great War? Was Roosevelt living or dead? What was the date of your marriage? When did your wife die?

To most of the questions asked, Mr. Norton made a correct reply, witness stated.

Dr. Benner said that he did not know Mr. Norton if he could read or write, and admitted that this was important and that he should have asked that question.

Mrs. Bridget Tyrell, who was on the stand yesterday morning, was recalled at the afternoon session. She said that some time in January of 1921 Mr. Norton said that his property would all be left to Mary Mulry. Under cross-examination she admitted that Mary Mulry has asked her to testify.

GRAND JURY PROBES DEATH

Investigation of Alleged Poisoning of Mrs. Charles Webb Continues

Mrs. Johnstone, Wife of Former New York Judge, to Testify Today

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Oct. 3.—The Westchester county grand jury today will continue its investigation into the alleged poisoning of Mrs. Charles Webb, wealthy member of New York and Philadelphia society, who died a week ago today at the Westchester-Billmore Country club at Rye, N. Y. Yesterday Dr. William J. Meyer, who attended Mrs. Webb during her last illness and was the first to intimate that she had been the victim of slow poisoning, appeared before the jury to explain his charges and suspicions.

One of today's main witnesses is expected to be Mrs. Margaret J. Johnstone, wife of a former New York judge, and one of Mrs. Webb's best friends. Mrs. Johnstone has been frank in her statements of the belief that the wealthy Mrs. Webb was poisoned and her testimony is expected to uphold the statement of Dr. Meyer.

A move was started among former friends of Mrs. Webb last night to take the case to Gov. Smith and ask him to designate the attorney general to continue the investigation.

This move was taken soon after Coroner Fitzgerald and District Attorney Rowland had made statements that if more evidences of poisoning were not forthcoming immediately, the case would be dropped. The chemical analysis of Mrs. Webb's kidneys has not as yet been reported officially to the county officials.

The fight over Mrs. Webb's will, or wills, which were said to dispose of an estate of between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 was expected to take more definite form today.

Former Surrogate Cobahan has been retained by relatives to contest the short will which was filed for probate.

OAKLAND TRAVELER IS EXPECTED

Tomorrow will be the big day. The Oakland "True Blue Traveler," one of the fleet of new Oaklands despatched from the factory at Pontiac on Sept. 8, at the same time that the first announcement was made in the Saturday Evening Post, is gradually nearing Lowell and the members of the Lowell Oakland force, from Manager Arthur F. Pease all down the line are anxiously awaiting the word that shall tell them that the new Oakland creation is within the city limits.

From cities which the various cars have visited come stories of wonderful receptions. More as a conquering hero than as the 20th century representative of transportation has it been hailed.

Just what form of demonstration the car will give when it appears upon the streets of Lowell is not definitely settled, but the co-operation of the traffic authorities will be asked so that a thorough test of the new four-wheel brakes will be made at important points in the downtown section. It is also assured that a hill climbing demonstration will be staged that is expected to put an altogether different complexion on hill climbing than any hitherto known.

Thursday should certainly prove to be a big day locally for the new Oakland.

FOUR-CYLINDER HAS FOUR-WHEEL BRAKES

Amidst all the talk about four-wheel brakes, there has been only one four-cylinder automobile put out with brakes on all four wheels. When the Buick Co. announced that the new four-cylinder for this year would be equipped with four-wheel brakes, it caused much wonder on the part of many, both in the automobile trade and out. Four-wheel brakes for six-cylinder cars had become an accepted fact, but were not expected on four-cylinder cars.

Buick provides maximum safety when it equipped its 1924 four cylinder car with four-wheel brakes.

Last Longer— Less Adjustment

Buick Four-Wheel Brakes

Buick four-wheel brakes not only double the braking efficiency of the new 1924 Buicks by doubling the braking surface, but for the same reason lessen the wear on each brake mechanism in proportion. Buick four-wheel brakes last longer. They require less adjustment and the linings do not wear down as quickly.

Simple in construction and positive in action, Buick four-wheel brakes give added safety under all circumstances. They are of the Buick external contracting type and each brake has a three-quarter wrap or grip instead of the usual half-way grip.

Buick four-wheel brakes are operated with a slight pressure on the service brake pedal. They act quickly, smoothly and easily.

All 1924 Buicks (both fours and sixes) have these new four-wheel brakes. In addition, the 1924 Buicks embody further advancements in power, in construction and in beauty that make Buick more than ever "the Standard of Comparison".

EXCEPTIONAL RIDING COMFORT

The new Dodge Brothers Touring Car is exceptionally comfortable to ride in; it is good looking; and it incorporates many important refinements of detail.

The body is longer and lower, eliminating side sway, affording more leg room, and enhancing the beauty of the lines.

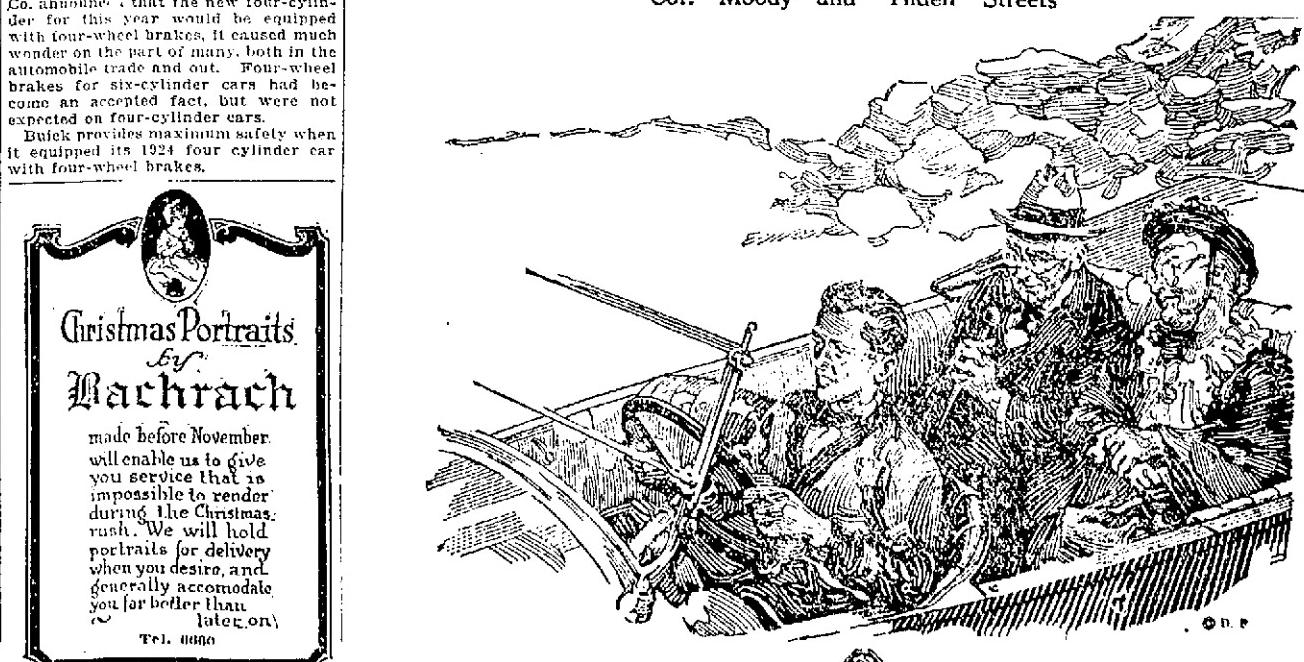

Deeper seats, long underslung rear springs and longer front springs, give ample assurance that cross country touring can be enjoyed without weariness or fatigue.

Yet with these improvements, and many others, it is still fundamentally the same car—built on the same chassis and powered by the same sturdy engine.

Lamar and Two Detectives in Jail

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 3.—A telegram from Laredo, Tex., last night said the progress of David Lamar, "Wolf of Wall Street," to the Texas border, was interrupted Tuesday at Torreon, when Lamar and two Mexican detectives accompanying him, were thrown in jail. The charges on which the trio is being held were not specified. L. T. Needham of the department of justice has gone to Torreon, where he expects to get Lamar and return with him Friday.

Barrett declared that the guards had merely been transferred to the capital from the local armory as a precautionary measure and that there was no significance in their presence. He said no trouble was expected. The troops are quartered in one room, and the building is not patrolled.

Sweeping Victory

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 3.—(By the Associated Press) Opponents of Gov. J. C. Walton scored a sweeping victory yesterday in the most spectacular election ever held in Oklahoma.

A constitutional amendment empowering the state legislature to meet on its own call to consider impeachment charges against the governor was passed by a decisive majority.

Despite the executive's proclamation postponing the election and his threat to block it by armed force, opposition was negligible, and the balloting proceeded peacefully, except for minor instances, throughout the state.

Heavy Vote on Record

Indications early today were that board headquarters when election officials there refused to open the polls.

Military Forces Absent

In all other counties the election proceeded smoothly under the watchful eyes of hundreds of special deputies commissioned to protect the voters.

There was no instance of interference by members of the governor's state police force. Two, however, were arrested at Tulsa, charged with carrying concealed weapons.

The military forces did not appear.

Replying to the statement of Representative W. D. McFee that his "despotic administration" no longer can be representative of a small part of the people because such an overwhelming majority repudiated it in the election, Gov. Walton declared last night:

"I am still governor of the state. The fight on the invisible empire has just started in Oklahoma."

The executive has charged that members of the legislature who drafted impeachment charges against him and attempted to convene, only to be dispersed by national guardsmen under orders from the governor, are Ku Klux Klansmen seeking to halt his war on the secret organization.

The legislative amendment to the constitution under the law, becomes effective as soon as returns from the election are certified to the secretary of state by the state election board. This usually requires at least a week.

Walton May Go to Courts

While the future intentions of the governor have not been made known, it is considered probable that he will seek through the courts to bar an immediate assembly of the legislature under the provisions of the amendment and thereby test the validity of the election.

If he seeks an injunction restraining the election board from certifying the returns, attorneys pointed out today, it will be necessary for the state supreme court to pass on the legality of the election. This might delay any attempt of the legislature to convene because of certain formalities observed in such proceedings.

To decide the election legal, it was said, the supreme court first must ascertain whether it is a "representative sentiment" of the state as a whole.

Seize Yacht With $60,000 Whiskey Cargo

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Three police boats captured a $60,000 gasoline yacht with $60,000 worth of whiskey on board in the East river, early today. The police boats forced the craft in shore after engine trouble had forced her to cut down her speed. Four men were arrested.

New York Wants Democratic Convention

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Organization of a movement to bring the national democratic convention to New York in 1924, was started today when a group of prominent men were called together to discuss the proposal. Former Justice O'Brien is chairman of the group, which is non-partisan and includes Will Hays, William Church Osborne, Frank A. Munsey, Ralph Pulitzer, Lewis E. Pierson, Thomas L. Chidbourne, Michael Friedsam and Frank D. Waterman. Should the convention be brought to New York it will be the city's first national major political convention in nearly half a century.

TO TEST TORPEDO BOAT DESTROYER PUTNAM

ROCKLAND, Me., Oct. 3.—The torpedo boat destroyer Putnam went on the Rockland course today for standardizations, resuming a series of experimental trials which were begun last fall.

The government is making an intricate set of tests to determine the effect of different displacements on speed, also what effect fouling of the bottom has on speed. The results of last fall's tests were satisfactory with the exception of the horse power data, according to the officials, and today's restandardization was for statistical information in that respect.

Six months since after marine growth has accumulated on the destroyer's bottom in southern waters, a similar trial will take place, probably at Guantanamo Bay.

Today's trial was under the direction of Rear Admiral G. H. Burrage, the new president of the board of inspection and survey, who returned from command of the torpedo boat flotilla just before the destruction of seven destroyers on the California coast a month ago.

DIVORCES ON INCREASE IN UNITED STATES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—One divorce to 7.6 marriages in the United States last year, is the record disclosed today by the census bureau's marriage and divorce survey, the first since 1916, when there was only one divorce to almost 9.3 marriages. There were one-fifth more divorces and about one-fifth fewer marriages per 100,000 of population last year, than in 1916.

There were 1,126,418 marriages recorded last year, while in 1916 there were 1,110,654, showing a numerical increase of 55,764. To every 100,000 of population, however, there were only 1033, marriages in 1922, as compared with 1055 in 1916, a decrease of 2.05 per cent.

Divorces granted last year totalled 145,553 for the whole country, against 112,026 in 1916, an increase of 36,518. To each 100,000 of population, there was 128 divorces last year as compared with 112 in 1916, an increase of 21.4 per cent.

COLUMBIA SQUAD IN SECRET PRACTICE

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—In preparation for the football game with the University of Pennsylvania on Oct. 29, the Columbiaarsity squad, under the tutelage of Coach Percy Haughton, will engage regularly in secret practice. The first drill behind closed gates was held yesterday afternoon. Practice is to be so secret that the game with the Red and Blue machine of Tom Young may be the turning point of the Columbia football season. The same secrecy about the preparatory work will be in force for the big games with Cornell and Dartmouth. The final drill, a running maneuver lasting a half hour and tackling exercise with a hard dummy, occupied yesterday's strenuous workout. It was announced.

CARDINAL APPEALS FOR RELIEF FUND

The Cardinal, who just returned from the hierarchy's meeting, dated the letter from Washington, the first of the present month, and says:

"At our latest meeting in Washington, Sept. 26, His Excellency the Apostolic Delegate read to the assembled prelates a communication which he had just received from His Holiness, Pius XI, in which the Holy Father, in a very touching manner, set forth the urgent need of coming to the assistance of the poor and suffering peoples of the Near East, Central Europe and Japan.

"Naturally the poor and the suffering of all nations turn now more than ever to the Holy See, imploring the Common Father of Christendom to aid them and succor them in their unspeakable distress.

"The heart of the Sovereign Pontiff is torn with anguish as appeal after appeal is made to him, finding himself, nevertheless, without adequate means to supply financial aid to so many and so insistent cries from various parts of the world for his charitable intervention. Formerly he could appeal to the various nations of Europe to help him in his charitable endeavors to aid his suffering and needy children; but now to what nation in Europe can he turn with any hope of receiving large financial aid?

"He has expressed his own sense of embarrassment at finding himself so often compelled, by the sheer stress of conditions as they are in Europe, to so frequently entreat generous Americans to assist him now, since Europe, engrossed in her own troubles, seems for the moment at least, incapable of answering in any large measure his fatherly appeals.

"Surely the Holy Father cannot, and will not, be content to listen without a response to the piteous cry for aid from his stricken children.

"Surely too, all the bishops, priests and people of America, understanding well the sorrow which fills his paternal heart at the sight of such overwhelming needs and the pitiful small means at his disposal, will never turn a deaf ear to any appeal which the Holy Father makes to their Christian sympathy and generosity.

"The Holy Father never appeals for himself; he never speaks of his own needs, though they are many and great.

"The bishops who listened to the reading of the Holy Father's letter were deeply touched, and unanimously promised instant aid to the efforts of the Holy Father in procuring help for his suffering children. Unanimously, too, they recommended at once collections all over the country for what they wished to be named "The Holy Father's Charitable Relief Fund," and they instructed me to send this communication to all the archbishops and bishops of America, which I have herewith the honor to do.

"It is their hope and wish that this most recent appeal of the Holy Father should be given the fullest publicity all over the country, and that on the earliest Sunday possible after the receipt of this letter collections be taken up in all the churches of the country for this fund and sent forthwith to His Excellency, the Apostolic Delegate, who will transmit the money received to the Holy Father.

"May we not all, by our united action in this response to the Holy Father's appeal, give added proof, if such were necessary, that his burdens are our burdens, that his anxieties are ours, and that whenever he turns to us for assistance or aid, or comfort, his devoted American children will realize his desire as soon as it is expressed and gladly endeavor to accomplish it?"

TO AVERT CRISIS IN GERMANY

United Socialists Said to Be Prepared to Make a Few Concessions

Move Expected to Avert German Ministerial Crisis, Says Berlin Despatch

LONDON, Oct. 3.—There is a possibility that a German ministerial crisis will be averted inasmuch as the United Socialists have said they are prepared to make a few concessions, says an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Berlin today.

The nationalist party has requested the appointment of Minoux, managing director of the Stinnes concern, as minister of finance in place of Herr Helfferding.

The Socialist group in the Diet has decided to invite the communists to join the government on the condition that they recognize the constitution, the despatch adds.

A Berlin telegram to Reuter's says it is officially announced that the discussions of the German cabinet last evening centered chiefly around the question of the increased output in industry which the cabinet by virtue of the emergency law, proposes to carry through.

The socialists and democrats in the cabinet will inform their parties of the arrangement decided upon.

FRENCH TURN DOWN PROPOSAL

PARIS, Oct. 3.—The French government some days ago received a proposal from the German government, that the latter send a high commissioner to the Ruhr, who would negotiate with the French authorities as to the conditions under which work should be resumed. The French government it is understood from responssible quarters, refused to receive such a proposal.

The person named as likely to be appointed by Chancellor Stresemann was Johannes Fuchs, minister of the occupied area. Baron von Maltzan, German under-secretary of foreign affairs, in discussing the subject with M. L. Margerio, the French ambassador, was informed that France must decline to have in the Ruhr a representative of the Berlin government.

Who, according to the French conception, would undertake argument in opposition to many measures which the French consider necessary. The French view was that any liberal measure would likely be claimed by the Prussian agent as due to his insistence, while any action that might prove unpopular would be declared by him to have been put into effect over his protest.

SCHOOL BOARD RULES

A committee of the school board has under consideration some changes in the rules governing the action of the board and defining the duties of superintendent, teachers and other employees of the department. One of the principal changes is, that the superintendent shall not serve as secretary. Formerly the superintendent became secretary of the board ex-officio, but under a provision of the new rules a secretary other than the superintendent is provided for and his duties defined. Another paragraph, Chapter III, Section 20, provides as follows:

"The superintendent of schools shall attend all meetings of the board, except when his election is in order or under discussion, but shall neither participate in any debate nor be recognized by the presiding officer when a question is before the committee except as provided by general law; all recommendations of the superintendent of teachers, text books, and courses of study shall be submitted in writing."

It is very evident that the purpose of this section is to gag the superintendent, while the election of somebody else to serve as secretary would create a new position where none is necessary. Moreover, it can be readily realized that if the secretary of the school board were controlled by a political clique, matters in that body would soon be still worse than at present. We fail to see wherein the interests of the schools would be advanced by such changes; but perhaps that is not the purpose in view.

FIRE PREVENTION CAMPAIGN

Fire Commissioner Glynn, of Boston, has addressed a circular to every large establishment in that city urging each to organize a private fire fighting force among its employes. That does not mean that each of the large stores is to maintain a fire department of its own, but merely, that the employes shall have fire drills in which certain parties in every department shall take the lead in using the extinguishers at hand in fighting any fires that may occur until the arrival of the city department. It means also, that somebody in every department will be under instruction to keep the fire hazards as low as possible. That alone will prevent many destructive fires in the course of a year.

This plan will help to stay the progress of the fire in the incipient stages, which everybody will admit is a most important consideration. Where the employes are drilled, they are put under discipline that will protect their own lives in case of a sudden outbreak of fire and at the same time provide that everything possible be done to fight its progress. It is an excellent idea and one which is calculated to reduce the fire losses to a minimum. It might well be adopted in every city of importance in the country.

AS TO HEALTH EDUCATION

In a lecture on the subject of Health Education in the Schools in the series on Building Better Citizenship at Boston college, Rev. Jones L. J. Corrigan, S. J., made some very strong points against the crowding of the school curriculum with what is termed fads or non-essential subjects, which he holds might well be dropped to give place to simple courses of instruction on the meaning, value, and method of health preservation. He pointed out that the ignorance of the simplest health facts is appalling, and that in consequence the human wastage from entirely preventable diseases runs annually high into the thousands.

He states a recognized fact when he says that while we conserve our national resources, there is a fatal neglect in the conservation of our man power. He urged health instruction as a means of building a better citizenship and urged all teachers to visit the Boston health show which opens in Mechanics hall next Saturday.

In the course of his lecture he made the following statement which should receive careful consideration from school authorities:

"A health course in the schools should teach the children the need of building up a strong vital resistance. It should stress the value of sunshine and oxygen. It should point out that the welfare of the bodily organism is dependent on cleanliness of person, clothes and surroundings; on the quantity, quality, and digestion of food, and on the regularity of eating; on the purity of the water we drink, on the sufficiency and soundness of our sleep; on temperance in the use of stimulants, narcotics and drugs."

"Our civic obligation here has not been met. The hope of the future is in the schools. If our children are not to grow up physically weaklings if they are to escape the dangers lurking all about in harmful influences, we must oust the time-consuming fads and insert into the school curriculum on a much larger scale the very imperative urge on health preservation."

If any proof were needed to support these statements it can be found in the record of the vast number of men rejected on account of physical defects when examined in the selecting draft before we entered the World war.

DEATH TOLL OF ACCIDENTS

The national safety council is authority for the statement that 75,000 were killed in accidents in 1922, making an increase of 2,000 over the previous year. No fewer than 14,000 of these deaths, or 18 per cent of the total are charged up to the automobile. There is here a problem for every community in the endeavor to reduce the number of such accidents and particularly those resulting from the operation of motor vehicles which are probably the most numerous of the public streets of every American city.

It is significant that in 100 cities throughout the United States there were 11.1 deaths with 10,000 cars registered and 12.8 for every 100,000 population. It is a sad waste of human life and although vigorous efforts are being made to reduce the number of such accidents, yet their number keeps on increasing.

STAMPEDE

In the darkness of a New York movie theatre, Robert Paster rose to leave. His seat was halfway to the orchestra, but his first move was observed by the patrons standing four deep in the rear.

Paster was suddenly trampled upon and some hours afterwards he woke up in Bellevue hospital. He tells the surgeons that he had barely risen and over they ran dispense of their stock trade, chiefly moonshine or some deleterious substitute for whiskey.

SEEN AND HEARD

You hear a lot of talk about the new football players, but nothing about new professors.

Why hire men for football coaches? One good-looking girl could make a team whip the universe.

A Thought

There is nothing more pitiable in the world than an irresolute man oscillating between two feelings, who could willingly unite the two, and who does not perceive that nothing can unite them—Goethe.

Beer On Prescription

"What has become of this talk about beer on prescription? It was to be for medicinal purposes, of course." Inquired an interested person. "We druggists didn't want it," was answered. "It would have brought you business," the first man insisted. "One direction, maybe, and lost it in another." "Huh!" grunted the other. "Beer would have called for pretzels and pretty soon there would have been singing at the soda counter."

The Lawyer Won

One of Mississippi's most famous criminal lawyers was attending a convention in New Orleans, where he engaged in an argument with a physician over the relative merits of their professions. "I don't say that all lawyers are crooks," said the physician, "but you'll have to admit that men of your cloth don't make angels." "You are right," retorted the lawyer. "You doctors have the better of us in that respect."

Couldnt' Post Sandy

His English friends had prevailed upon him to accompany them to a race meeting. Arriving there, Sandy—for he was a Scot—soon overcame his scruples to stake half a crown on a horse. It was an outsider, but imagine his delight when it came in first at heavy odds. He hurried to the bookmaker, who rather grudgingly, it seemed, doled out his winnings. Careful Sandy examined each coin, and the bookmaker, glancing at him, remarked: "Well, are you afraid they're bad?" "No, but I was just makin' shat that the bad one a gied ye wasn't amang them."

House Makes Waste

Charles Klauder, the architect, said at a dinner in Philadelphia: "American architecture stands today as high as any in the world, but there was a time when we were almost proud of our terrible Jerry buildings. An American, exuding at the stupendous and majestic magnificence of the Spanish cathedral of Toledo, said to his guide: 'How long did it take to run up this affair?' Five hundred years, said the guide, answered. The American gave a contemplative laugh. Five hundred years! Jerry smoke," he said. "Why, even in God's own country we could build a structure like that and have it fall to pieces on our hand all inside of two or three years."

Had One of His Own

An immigrant was called before an inspector at Ellis Island to have his mentality tested. Assuming a look of dignity, the inspector propounded this question: "If I give you a dog, this man gave you a dog, this other man gave you a dog, and that man gave you a dog, how many dogs would you have?" "Five dogs," replied the immigrant. "Now listen carefully," continued the somewhat irritated inspector. "If I gave you a dog, this man gave you a dog, this other man gave you a dog, and that man gave you a dog, how many dogs would you have?" "Five dogs," again answered the candidate for admission to the United States. "For the love of Mike, man," cried the irritated inspector, "how could you have five dogs?" "Well, you see," calmly replied the immigrant, "I have one of me own."

Autumnal Dreams

When the maple turns to crimson
And the sassafras to gold,
When the gentian's in the meadow,
And the aster on the wold;

When the noon is tapped in vapor,
And the night is frosty-cold;

When the chestnut-burrs are opened,
And the acorns drop like hail,
And the frosty air is startled
With the stamping of the mallard;

With the drumming of the partridge
And the whistle of the quail;

Through the rustling woods I wander
Through the jewels of the year,
From the yellow uplands calling;
Seeking her that still is dear;

She is near me in the autumn,
She, the beautiful, is near;

Through the smoke of burning summer,

When the wavy winds are still,
When the sun is in the valley;

I can hear her on the hill—
In the splendor of the woodlands,

In the whisper of the rill.

For the shores of earth and Heaven
Meet and mingle in the blue;

She goes down the green slope
To the places that she knew;

Where the happy hours wandered
In the days when it was true.

So I think, when days are sweetest,
And the world is wholly fair,

She may sometime stand upon me
Through the dimness of the air,

With the cross upon her bosom
And the amaranth in her hair.

Once I meet her, and to meet her,
And to hold her fondly fast,

Thou blessed her, till he blessed me;

That we're happiness at last;

That we're bliss beyond our dreams;

That the autumn is the past.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

During the course of Tuesday's noonday luncheon of the Rotary club, Commander Joseph A. Molloy of Lowell post, American Legion, told his fellow Rotarians a striking little human interest story that had its beginning back in the days when the flower of American manhood was serving Uncle Sam in France.

Commander Molloy recently was in Rutland and visited the veterans' hospital. In the course of his trip around the institution he ran across a young lad who was a private in his outfit in France. The boy, and Capt. Molloy say he was a more strapping of seventeen in the days of the St. Mihiel drive, is recovering nicely from the effects of wounds and the gassing he got over there. He was quite happy and was glad to see his former company commander.

In asking his fellow Rotarians to keep the disabled veterans in mind for auto rides in spare Sunday hours, Commander Molloy mentioned an incident in which this youth figured oversize.

"It was just after the close of the St. Mihiel drive," said the speaker, "and after racing steadily for over a week it had cleared up a bit. We had just located in town and I had several men out getting identifications. They were interviewing captured Germans, taking 'dog-tags' and such stuff in an effort to find out just what German troops were in front of us. This boy and I were in front of the house in the detail.

"The marines had backed us in our part of the drive and General Neville, commanding the marine brigade, came to town that afternoon to find out how things were with us. He decided to establish his headquarters there and plotted out a fine house for himself.

"The general was wearing a new overcoat which he had just received from Paris. He was soaking wet, however, from the continuous rain of the past week and on entering his new home hung the heavy overcoat up to dry on a nail just outside the door of the house.

"The marine overcoat differs from the army overcoat as many of you know. Where an army officer's rank is shown by braid on the sleeve, the marine officer wear shoulder insignia and have a lot of fantastic fundaments of some sort on the sleeve. The color instead of olive drab as in the army is of a green that similar to some German uniforms.

"This young lad that is now up in the hospital passed by with the old regular sergeant shortly after the general had hung up the coat. He didn't know what it was and the old soldier had no difficulty in convincing the lad he should cut the sleeves off and bring them in for identification. The old soldier had just cut away the second sleeve when out of the house came the general.

"You can imagine the scene. The kid even then wasn't sure whether he was talking to a real live general or not and as to damage, dismissed it saying, 'I've got some money due me down to the company; go down there and they'll fix you up all right.'

"A year ago I met Gen. Neville in New York and we had a hearty laugh when we recalled the incident. Gen. Neville asked me then to locate that boy for him if I could as he had one of the sleeves he wished to send him as a souvenir. I promised to do so if possible and only two Sundays ago accidentally ran across the boy in that hospital.

"This morning I received a letter from the lad and I want to read part of it to you," Commander Molloy read the letter, which consisted of a true soldierly appeal of a youngster who said he was 'all right' but wished his old captain could do something towards untying the hilt that had held back his 'buddy' on the bunk next to me here" from getting his compensation. The 'buddy,' a hospital acquaintance, was a Nashua boy whose behalf the legon lost no time in getting busy. The ending of the letter mentioned Capt. Molley's intention of sending the youngster's address to General Neville.

"Off we haven't sent that general my address yet I wish you wouldn't do it, please Captain," said the boy. "I prefer to have that matter be one of the closed incidents of my life."

was too late for Commander Molley had already notified Gen. Neville of the youngster's plight and address and he was probably heard from the gallant marine commander by this time.

"The program for the year at the Girls' Vocational school and which will be carried out on the same lines in the evening classes at the various schools is as follows:

MILLINERY: Sport hat, first unit; velvet hat 1 and 2, second unit; after Christmas or what is known as between seasons hats of satin, taffeta or whatever material then in vogue, third unit; summer culture, straw, horse-hair, maline or whatever material is desired, fourth unit.

DRESSMAKING—First year, cotton materials. Simple dress, first unit; wrap-around skirt, second unit; blouse, third unit; afternoon dress, fourth unit. Advanced class: remodeling, first unit.

Walking through Middle street yesterday afternoon I noticed a large flock of pigeons in the street near a grain supply house. An inquiry brought the information that fully a hundred of these birds make their regular boarding place there. There is sufficient grain left on the sidewalks there to continue loading and unloading to provide them with an easy living.

"The Rosary" continues as the world's best-selling song. It has been translated into every language and has earned more money than any other song ever written. In popularity it threatens the supremacy even of "Dixie" which long since became an international tune. The really phenomenal part is that "The Rosary" isn't jazz, so there's still hope for our generation.

A fine crayon drawing of the Lowell Memorial Auditorium, made on ordinary wall cotton cloth by James Kilburn, is attracting considerable attention on display in a Merrimack street store window this week.

The first number of "LowTell," the new Y.M.C.A. paper, to be published fortnightly, made its appearance this week. The paper is wholly the work of "Y" men here. Warren C. Carberg is editor and N. R. Farnum secretary of the new publication. Associate editors are Edw. J. Dilla, F. A. Lawlor, and Frank A. McPhee. The paper is free to all members.

Among the organizations in the city which have already signified their intention of backing up the proposed tax day of the Lowell Guild, next Saturday are the Lowell Social Service Bureau, the Catholic Charities Center and the Lowell policewomen. As the funds will be used for baby work, a unanimous response is expected from the public.

Preparing statistics in the probate court department of the district court is no sinecure, according to Joseph L. Cronin, who has charge of that work. Yesterday Mr. Cronin released his report for the fiscal year of 1922 and the compilation of figures accurate to the minutest detail, required several hours of labor. Besides the yearly report Mr. Cronin's department is also responsible for a monthly report which likewise entails much work. Court Officer Michael Dowd lends valuable assistance to Mr. Cronin.

LOWELL MAN TESTIFIES AT COAL HEARING

Charles H. Pritchard of the Lowell Gas Light Co. testified yesterday in Boston before the special legislative committee which is investigating the coal situation in reference to the production of coke.

Mr. Pritchard said that his company is now manufacturing about 200 tons of coke monthly, which is selling for $14.50 per ton, with the price for an average of $17 per ton. He further stated that a systematic campaign is necessary to educate the people generally to use coke, and that his company was trying to get a permanent market for coke in order to keep down the price of gas.

MEETING YESTERDAY AT MOREY SCHOOL

The first fall meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Charles W. Morey school was held yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the school auditorium. H. H. Bruse, instructor in education at the local Normal school, was the speaker of the day and gave an interesting talk on "The Meaning of Education to the Child."

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Charles E. Cook, president, and the secretary, Mrs. Amy Davis, read the minutes of the last meeting. Mrs. Davis' resignation was then read and accepted and a rising vote of thanks given her for her efficient services as secretary.

These Girls too Ill to Attend School

DAUGHTER OF MRS. VIEGHER
NORTH BALTIMORE, OHIO

AT no age does a young girl need greater care than from the time she reaches the age of twelve years until womanhood is established. Many a woman has suffered years of misery because as a girl she has been allowed to sit around with wet feet, lift heavy articles, overwork and overstudy. In all such cases Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be given as it is especially adapted for such conditions. It is a root and herb medicine, contains nothing harmful and may be taken in perfect safety by any school girl.

This Mother's Letter and Daughter's Photograph of Interest to Every American Mother

NORTH BALTIMORE, OHIO.—"My fourteen-year-old daughter took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound every month for weakness. One of her classmates in school who had the same trouble told her about it. She said: 'My mother makes me take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.' So that day she came home and told me and we got some the next day. She took three bottles of it and never has to stay home from school now from sickness. She is strong and well. I am sure if any mother writes to me I will be glad to answer her letter."—Mrs. VIEGHER, Box 61, North Baltimore, Ohio.

Another Mother Tells What It Did for Her Daughter

DANBRIDGE, TENN.—"My daughter was not able to go to school for almost a year because of pains in her side and other trouble girls often have. I was just studying one day what I could give her that would help her when I thought of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and decided I would get it for her. Since taking it she has gained to normal weight and goes to school all the time."—Mrs. GEORGE HINCHEY, Danbridge, Tenn.

FUNERAL PYRES STILL BURNING

Residents of Tokio Flock to
Worship and Pray for
Spirits of the Departed

Feared Winter Will Bring in
Its Wake a Heavy Toll
From Pulmonary Diseases

TOKYO, Oct. 2 (by the Associated Press).—A month after Japan's greatest earthquake funeral pyres still burning in Honjo and Fukagawa wards and in other districts of Tokyo, where bodies are being taken from the ruins. Besides these pyres are many shrines where relatives of the dead flock to worship and to pray for the spirits of the departed.

Despite the need of haste in disposing of bodies to prevent epidemics and in clearing away debris so the city can be rebuilt in a measure before the rigors of winter set in, the bereaved area is finding time to perform the simpler rites of mourning.

Shanties of every description have sprung up over the devastated area, especially in the low lying districts, giving protection from rains, but not from floods, and it is feared that winter will bring in its wake a heavy toll of death from pulmonary diseases.

"Tiny shops with scant stocks have sprung up everywhere. One of the biggest thoroughfares of the city now is Asakusa, leading to the famous Buddhist temple Sensoji, dedicated to Kannon, Goddess of Mercy. Before the fire this street was the centre of Tokyo's Coney Island.

The teahouse and theatre are gone. In their place are the little shanties with their keepers standing in the doors and shouting their wares.

The 30-day moratorium, which terminated yesterday, apparently has had little effect on the money market. The Tokyo clearing house has resumed business and all the banks have reopened except one small institution. The banks prepared for unusual demands but depositors are withdrawing only what money they require for immediate necessities.

AUTOS LOCK HORNS

EAST MERRIMACK ST.

An automobile collision at 8:30 this morning tied up traffic on East Merrimack street, near the square, for about 20 minutes while the two machines were being freed apart and disrupted the electric car schedules for about the same length of time on cars going out or coming in East Merrimack street.

A truck driven by Edward Stevens of Tewksbury backed out from thence in back of the Fairburn building and the front right wheel struck a car driven by Arthur Brown, R. P. F. Lowell, and damaged its running board. For a few minutes it seemed that a wrecker would have to be called as the two machines were locked together. Harry Meyers, operator of one of the cars, sprang out and came to the rescue, however, with one of the big car jacks and hid the two machines separated within a few moments. Neither car was seriously damaged.

the Ford's mudguard and running board being punctured in several places and the larger truck sustaining only minor damages to its right mudguard.

CALL GOVERNORS TO WHITE HOUSE

Invitations Sent to Executives of 48 States to Meet to Discuss Law Enforcement

Coolidge Sends Committee to Northwest to Confer With Wheat Growers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Invitations were sent out from the White House today to the governors of the 48 states for a conference with President Coolidge, Oct. 20, to discuss law enforcement, particularly as applied to the prohibition, immigration and anti-narcotic statutes.

The governors will come to Washington from their annual conference at West Baden, Ind., leaving Indianapolis the evening of Oct. 19, and arriving in Washington shortly after noon the next day. They will go direct to the White House, where they will be entertained at luncheon by the president, after which the work of the conference will begin.

The plan for the conference provides that the heads of the departments of justice, treasury and labor which are particularly concerned with the enforcement of the constitution to be considered, shall present the views of the federal government with respect to co-operation in enforcement. This presentation will be followed by a discussion of what the states can do in a co-operative way.

To Meet Wheat Growers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Managing Director Meyer and Director Mondell of the War Finance Corporation and a representative of the department of agriculture were directed by President Coolidge today to leave immediately for the central northwest to discuss with the wheat growers of that section the formation of co-operative marketing associations which might avail themselves of government funds under the new rural credits act.

The officials will be charged with directing the formation of co-operative associations among the wheat growers similar to those which have been operated successfully among the cotton planters and tobacco growers of the south, the raisin growers of California and the fruit raisers of the Pacific coast.

The plan of the administration contemplates that upon organization of these co-operative associations funds which will enable them to market the present wheat crop in an orderly manner will be provided by the War Finance Corporation under legislation passed by the last congress.

Meanwhile the president and his cabinet will continue to study the agricultural situation with a view to providing further remedial measures

OPENING OF IRISH FREE STATE PARLIAMENT

DUBLIN, Oct. 3. (By the Associated Press)—The Irish Free State parliament was formally opened this afternoon, the senate and Dail Eireann assembling together to hear the address of Governor Healy.

The governor-general indicated that the measures to be submitted to parliament would provide for the establishment of a judicial system, define the position of the police force, and deal comprehensively with the military organization.

Referring to the republican prisoners held by the Free State, the governor-general said they were detained for reasons of public safety and that it was generally hoped that the necessity for asking extraordinary powers would disappear and that it might be found possible gradually to release the majority of those held.

DEATH OF BOY REMAINS A MYSTERY

PEABODY, Oct. 3. Just how Michael Mastinck, four-year-old son of Mazur Mastinck, of 2 Mount Vernon street, came to his death on Wall street yesterday morning, remains a mystery. The child was found near the street in a dying condition. An autopsy performed by Medical Examiner H. K. Foster revealed internal injuries, but only two slight external abrasions.

A seven-year-old Greek girl, Maria Manadis, told the police that a truck turning into a coal yard, nearby struck the boy. Manager Stoney, of the coal yard, declared that no truck came into the yard.

The police are inclined to the belief that the child was struck by some form of motor vehicle and are pursuing investigations along those lines.

CHICKENS TO LAY TWO EGGS A DAY

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 2.—Experiments conducted at the West Virginia agricultural station here have led poultry experts to believe that it may be possible to breed chickens which will lay two eggs a day. H. G. Knight, the director, announced today.

Hen No. 315 has two generative organs, according to the director. Her record shows, he said, that for three or four days she lays eggs long and narrow, and then for a few days the eggs are in natural shape. It can be bred with two generative organs, according to the experts, it would be possible to have such a chicken lay two eggs a day.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Introduction of a bill calling for one-half day's religious instruction weekly of pupils in public schools was approved today by the 18th annual convention of the synod of New York of the United Lutheran church of America. The resolution does not call for a general education in the Christian faith but permits pupils of the public schools of New York to attend a half-day session of religious instruction each according to their faith.

KILLS CAT AND HIMSELF

AKRON, Ohio, Oct. 3.—After trying poison on his cat, Joseph Decker, 66, of Barberston, took a dose of it himself and was found dead a few minutes later by his wife, with whom he had quarreled. The cat's lifeless body was at his feet.

For Uniform Wool Standards

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Successful negotiations have been concluded between American and British governmental and commercial interests in the first step of a movement for the establishment of uniform wool standards which will be applicable in trading throughout the world, similar to the universal cotton standards recently adopted, the department of agriculture announced today.

Fish Trust Men Eligible to Parole

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—Sanford Bates, commissioner of correction, today ordered the transfer from the Deer Island house of correction to the prison camp at Rutland, of the five remaining members of the so-called fish trust of Boston, serving sentences for conspiring to raise the price of fish in war time. They have served six months of their ten months' sentence and are now eligible to parole in the discretion of the parole board. These sentenced to shorter terms already have been paroled.

Magnus Johnson Meets Pres. Coolidge

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Magnus Johnson, new farmer-labor senator from Minnesota, conferred for 20 minutes today with President Coolidge and his visit to the White House offices caused a stir that seldom has been equalled by the calls of ambassadors or even princes and potentates.

DENIES MURDER CHARGE

Fred Thompson, Alias "Mrs. Carrick," Testifies in Own Defense at Chicago

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Fred Thompson, alias "Mrs. Frances Carrick," the man who posed as a wife, charged with the murder of Richard Teamer in a holdup, took the witness stand today and denied the charge. He spoke in the low tones a woman might use, nervously clasped and unclasped his hands, sobbed and told of his double life.

The defense insists that Thompson is a woman, but on the stand in answer to a question as to his name, he replied, after a moment's hesitation: "My name is Fred G. Thompson."

When he was 14 years old, he said, he came to Chicago and abandoned male attire. He said he first worked as a chambermaid and later because of his high soprano voice became a cabaret singer for a time.

At home, he said, his habits were those of a woman, but he did sewing and other household tasks of a woman.

He testified he was 33 years old and in 1912 married Frank Carrick at Crown Point, Ind.

When asked by his attorney if he killed Teamer while garbed as a woman, Thompson answered:

"No, gentlemen, I could not kill a cat or a dog."

After a brief cross-examination, Thompson was excused by Judge Cavanaugh, who remarked: "That will be all."

Case Charging Violation of Building Laws is Continued —Other Cases

Bennie Alford was arraigned in the district court this morning charged with a violation of the building laws, a charge that had been continued several times since June 28, the date of the original arraignment, and the case was again continued until one week from today.

State Inspector Joseph L. Cobb of Peabody prosecuted the case and he told of the infraction of the law made in connection with the non-completion of the fire escapes on the building.

Attorney Arthur C. Spalding appeared for the defendant and stated that the delay in the erection of the fire escapes was due to the manufacturer as the material had been ordered in time but several delays had been made and, as a result, the state inspector had called Alford into court. He asked that a plea of nolo be accepted by the court.

Judge Enright, in summing up the charge, said, "It what was said about the fire escape manufacturers was true, they should be brought into court instead of Alford," and then granted the continuance for a week.

Liquor Law Violations

Vittaline Laforriere was charged with keeping liquor with intent to sell and pleaded for a continuance until tomorrow, which was granted. Before the close of the court session, however, she withdrew her plea for a continuance and pleaded guilty. As it was her first offense Judge Enright assessed the usual $100 fine.

Josie Strachick was also charged with keeping liquor with intent to sell. The case was continued until the 11th and Josie was ordered to recognize in the sum of $300.

George J. Skalko was charged with maintaining a liquor nuisance and his case was continued for one week upon advice of counsel.

Other Offenders

Benjamin Schimel was called to answer a charge of drunkenness and, as he did not answer the call, was declared defaulted.

Joseph Gorski was brought into court on a capital warrant for failure to complete payments on a $10 fine imposed April 17. On promise to pay $1 a week until the remaining $5 is paid he was allowed to go free again.

Robert Tuff was arraigned on two counts, one of driving a machine while under the influence of liquor and the other of drunkenness. He was granted a continuance until next Monday.

William A. Rhodes was arraigned on two similar counts, operating a machine while under the influence and drunkenness. This case was first called on Sept. 26 and was today continued until Oct. 10 for trial.

William O'Brien and George Shanley were charged with larceny and drunkenness, the larceny counts being for $13 taken from a house on Lakeview avenue on Sept. 24.

Officer John Ganey made the arrest and he testified as to the condition of the two men when arrested. Sergeant Dwyer also appeared for the government and he testified that O'Brien admitted taking the money while drunk, but that Shanley denied having anything to do with the theft. As restitution had been made, Judge Enright filed the larceny charge against O'Brien and the charges of drunkenness against both offenders and discharged the larceny charge against Shanley.

The room where the ceremony took place was beautifully decorated, a large arch being constructed and prettily trimmed with pink roses and a large bridal bell suspended from the ceiling. The color scheme became. It was pink and white. Each couple acted as attendants for the other.

THE OLD HOME TOWN

ALLEGED DRUNKEN DRIVER ARRAIGNED

As an aftermath to an auto accident which occurred in Tewksbury two weeks ago, Edward C. Cote was arraigned before Judge Enright in district court this morning, as an alleged drunken driver. His companion at the time of the accident, Joseph Charron, was also arraigned charged with drunkenness. The case was heard in part only, the state's witnesses being called. The defense secured a continuance until next Tuesday, when the other side will be presented.

Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Stern are the complainants. The cars collided on the night of September 16 and at the same time collided with the car of Alfred Royer of Lowell. Mrs. Stern's nose was broken and she sustained several minor bruises. Cote, the defendant, was badly cut and, it is claimed, was tossed through his own windshield by the impact.

Rev. George F. Sturtevant of the First Congregational church testified against the defendants and was quite sure they had been drinking prior to the accident. He found a broken bottle containing strongly of whiskey. Officer Daniel Lynch, who investigated the accident, was another witness. Royer, driver of the third car that figured in the accident, wasn't sure whether the defendants were drunk or had been stunned by the collision. Mrs. Stern and Anthony Kelly of the Twinkling force also testified for the state.

Sorley, chairman of the committee, presided. The contract for catering at the breakfast was awarded and return postage received from members showed that thus far a splendid attendance is assured. The Rev. James F. Lynch, father of the deceased, whose direction the services at St. Michael's church will be held, is hopeful of a very fine showing next Sunday. As this is the first communion day since Father Lynch assumed the office the members are anxious to attend in large numbers. The mass will be sung at 8 o'clock the morning leaving the K. of C. club at 7:30. Sir Knight Arthur J. O'Neill, F. 33, will preside at the breakfast, and Daniel J. Donahue, Esq., will be the chief speaker.
